WOMEN WITNESSES' LIPS SEALED BY OFFICIALS IN MULLINS CASE

Snapshot by a Boston American photographer of Miss Katie Lovett (in the lower picture) and Mrs. Harriet B. Walcott, who were important witnesses at the inquest. Miss Lovett is employed in a family who lives near the house where the Mullins girl worked. The officials instructed these women to keep their evidence secret.

CITY ROBBED OF MILLIONS!

Startling Charge Made in Report to Good Government Association After Expert Investigation of Sewer Work.

That the city of Boston has been robbed of more than $7,000,000 by fraudulent sewer contracts during the past twelve years is the sensational charge made by the Good Government Association in a report published to-day.

"By means of 'split' contracts," the report, which is based on the investigation made for the association by its engineers, C. H. Wood & Co., intimates that a "deliberate plot existed to mulct the public treasury for the benefit of contractors or some other political reason."

'FENWAY GRAFT MERE INCIDENT'

"The notorious Fenway graft was merely an incident in the ordinary routine of the department," is the astounding statement of the investigators who say that it was the rule rather than the exception.

In six years, from 1900 to 1906, inclusive, according to the report, the loss to the city on sewer construction has averaged annually $650,000, out of an average of $1,963,876 expended annually. The figures for the other six years of the period were not available to the investigators as from 1900 to the present time the sewer department has not seen fit to publish the cost of construction work in detail.

WASTE 30 PER CENT.

The grossest waste, according to the report, occurred under the administration of Deputy Superintendent of Sewers Charles H. Cutler, at present deputy of that division. In 1895, under Cutler's regime, the waste was fifty per cent., in 1898 forty-five and in 1900 sixty-three per cent. The amount wasted during these three years, according to the report, was $2,135,-334.

As an example of the "split" contract system by which jobs are divided up among several contractors, the report cites the territory in the vicinity of Weld and Maple streets, West Roxbury, where the Fitzgerald administration managed to crowd seven jobs, including seven contracts and four day labor jobs on nine short streets in two years.

Evils of Split Contracts.

Of these "split" contracts the report says:

"It does not seem as though any sane man would plan work like this unless he deliberately intended to make the public treasury for the benefit of the contractors or some other political reason. The only other alternative is that the responsible official was utterly incompetent.

"The only object in thus dividing into many parts what ought to have been done as a unit is either to give favors to as many contractors as possible or else to so divide the work that there shall be as few contracts as possible for amounts in excess of $2,000, the legal dividing line between competitive and non-competitive contracts. In either case there is a large financial loss to the city without any gain."

The report goes on to say:

"For many years the sewer department has been conducted as an adjunct of the political machine that happened to be in power. Day labor jobs have been made a means of employing a much larger number of men than was necessary; contracts have been made with friends of the administration at exorbitant prices and for jobs that must in time for years before they are needed; sewers that have been in a dangerous condition for years have not been rebuilt though the necessity for rebuilding has been repeatedly urged by the chief and district engineers.

"BAR OUT POLITICS."

"These and practically all the other ills and defects of the sewerage system are due to the political control of the department.

"The only remedy for this condition of affairs is a fundamental one: The sewer department should be taken out of politics.

DRAINS WIT.H NO OUTLET.

It was found that on January 1, 1907, there existed in the city one mile of surface drains with no outlet. In many streets the engineers found that surface drains are laid parallel with house sewers for the length of the street and at its foot both empty into the same sewer. Twenty-nine miles of surface sewers emptied into house drains on January 1, 1907, says the report.

The investigation showed that by buying sewer pipe at retail the city receives a discount of only 60 per cent. from list prices as against 77 per cent. discount to the general public. It condemns the practice of paying the car fares of laborers and says further of the labor question:

IDLE 40 PER CENT. OF TIME.

"From a number of reports that we have made, we find that employes on day labor sewer work are idle during 40 per cent. of their working hours."

The report continues:

"City engineers are found to be minus the table column of costs. Information sought on this subject by the investigators has been formally and officially refused by the head of the department.

"Sewers that have been in a dangerous condition for years have not been rebuilt, though the necessity of rebuilding has repeatedly been urged by the chief and the district engineers.

"There is absolutely no necessity for two sewer department officials above the rank of chief engineer.

"During the last two years the chief engineer has had two superiors in the sewer department, who, together, are doing the same work that was formerly done by the chief alone. At least one of these two officials is unnecessary and at $5,000 a year is wasted on the superior offices of the department.

Most of the defects of the system are the direct result of the plans of engineers being overruled by the politicians.

Waste in Salaries.

"It is certainly to be hoped that there is not so much waste of wages in the case of other employes as there is of salaries for the heads of the department.

"While the engineering department is not above criticism, they have received much popular condemnation which should have been bestowed upon those whose orders they obey.

"For years these men have been reporting annually the extreme necessity of certain sewerage works, which were urgently demanded for the good of the city, and their recommendations are ignored because, sanitary necessity and political necessity pointing in opposite directions, the political necessity is considered the most important.

"The city of Boston is paying annually $15,000 in interest on the investment in unnecessary sewers."

Poor little Willie Vanderbilt I "Where's your papa?" asked little Cousin Kathleen of Alfred Vanderbilt's deserted son. "Don't Uncle Alfred ever bring you things and play with you like my papa does every single day?" See next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

JAPANESE CRUISER BLOWN UP; 209 DEAD

TRAINING SHIP MATSUSHIMA SUNK BY EXPLOSION OFF PESCADORES.

TOKIO, April 30.—Two hundred and nine officers and cadets, many of whom came from noble and titled families, including the sons of Field Marshal Prince Oyama and Vice-Foreign Minister Baron Chinda, perished early to-day when the training cruiser Matsushima was sunk off the Pescadores Islands by an explosion.

Of the crew of fifty seamen and the 300 cadets and officers on board only 111 were rescued.

Admiral Moshimatsu, commander of the training squadron, reports that the explosion occurred in the stock magazine of the cruiser at 4:08 o'clock this morning, while the vessel was anchoring at Makung. The cruiser immediately sank until only the bridge was visible.

Efforts at rescue by boats from the cruisers Hashidate and the Itsukushima saved 144 men, including some officers. The majority of the officers were not saved, and at the time of the admiral's report the cadets saved numbered fifty-eight out of a complement of 300.

The ships from the cruisers Hashidate and Itsukushima have been towing about the scene of the disaster for five hours, and it is believed all of those yet unaccounted for are dead.

It is believed Captains Yashiro, Mano and Yashimoto, who were aboard the Matsushima at the time of the explosion, all perished.

Among the missing and probably dead cadets are the sons of Field Marshal Prince Oyama and Vice-Foreign Minister Baron Chinda.

Long Record as Fighter.

The Matsushima is an armor protected cruiser with a long record for a ship in the Japanese navy which is but a few years old. She had a displacement of 4,277 tons and is about of the same type and armament of the olympia, the United States cruiser which served Admiral Dewey as a flagship at the great sea fight in Manila Bay.

The Matsushima carried one twelve-inch and eleven four-inch guns. This warship is eighteen years old and cost about $3,000,000, having been built at the La Seyne yards in France at a time when the Japanese government had no naval shipyards of its own and bought all its fighting craft of foreigners.

The Japs had great reverence for the Matsushima because of the gallant record she had made in the two wars which Nippon has fought since it adopted occidental customs. But she was too old to still stand the brunt of the firing line, and had been commissioned as a training vessel for the naval officers and enlisted men.

The Matsushima was four years old when she was baptized in blood. She first faced hostile shells at the battle of Haiyang on September 19, 1894, and this was an engagement which the whole world watched with interest, because it was the first test in actual fighting of the present type of warship. It was a testing of all the theories of construction and of those upon which naval designers had been working.

Flagship of Ito.

The Matsushima was the flagship at the battle of the Yalu and during the battle first engaged the Chinese warship Ping-yuen, which was less than half as big and locked two knots of the maximum speed of the Jap flagship. Then the latter fought in turn the Yoshino and the Ting-yuen. During the battle she narrowly escaped destruction. A shell penetrated the officers' room and killed four men at the portside discharger.

Another shell struck the battery dismantling one gun and exploding so a heap of ammunition which the fiery little Japs had ready to fire at the enemy. The explosion was frightful.

Sixty men were killed or wounded in an instant. Many of them were torn to fragments. The hull listed and a fire broke out. But it was fought down while the enemy was pouring shot on the wounded Matsushima.

When the flames were subdued every survivor aboard except the engineers and the stokers were put at the guns. Even the musicians served the nine guns still intact. The bandsman of a gunner's mate and ordinary seaman saved the ship.

WOMEN GIVE NEW CLEW TO MULLINS SLAYER

District Attorney John J. Higgins of Essex County, and Chief of Police Thomas D. Urquhart of Arlington, are hard at work to-day on the task of unraveling the mystery surrounding the murder of Annie Mullins, the handsome maid in the employ of Professor and Mrs. von Jagemann of Cambridge, and whose dead body was found in Spring Field, Arlington, on March 28.

In this work State Officer Charles E. Byrnes, who attended the inquest, is taking active part. All day to-day he has been in the District Attorney's office in East Cambridge. Courthouse, engaged in going through a mass of correspondence which passed back and forth between the principals, women witnesses in the Annie Mullins case. Hundreds of letters, all of which were given to the courtroom in a big bundle, are being read over by Detective Byrnes. They constitute letters from Annie Mullins to her Newfoundland parents and relatives and also the correspondence which passed between the parents and Boston cousins, [illegible] and relatives of the slain girl.

That the officials secured clews as the result of the sexual session of the inquest which was held yesterday took action to-day attest. They are entirely circumstantive, but they admit that they have many things to work upon which require explanation as per.

Testimony that Annie Mullins was seen the night of the murder with a mysterious man has caused an entirely different line of investigation to be opened and the officials are trying to find some clew to this stranger.

Women Give Clews.

Miss Katie Lovett, who lived at No. 17 Avon street, and Mrs. Harriet B. Walcott of No. 11 Walker street, have given the officials much important evidence upon which to work.

What these women told the officers who conducted the inquest before Judge Arthur P. Stone at the Third District Court in Cambridge, cannot be learned, for every one who took part in those proceedings since then has sealed his lips and refused to divulge anything.

The police admitted that they once more eliminated Motorman Peter Downey from the strange case, and that Downey had proved his previous alibi to their entire satisfaction.

That Miss Lovett and Mrs. Walcott told the inquisitors circumstances and facts of the greatest importance there can be admitted by certain of the officials who took part in the inquest yesterday, but what they learned and what they expect to do as a result of this late but startling information they absolutely refuse to disclose.

Neither Miss Lovett nor Mrs. Walcott would say one word as to what they told in the secret inquest or what questions they were asked. They declared that they were under the strictest pledge of secrecy and they had promised to tell nothing and that they would certainly keep their word.

HOUDINI SLIPS SHACKLES IN CHARLES RIVER

Harry Houdini jumped off the Harvard bridge into the Charles river this noon with his hands shackled behind his back, stayed under water thirty-one seconds, came up with the shackles off and brandished them gaily in one hand.

A mob that jammed the bridge from side to side the length of the draw and for several feet onto the roadway, cheered the performance heartily.

The Houdini party came to the bridge in automobiles furnished by Manager Hathaway of the White Steamer Company. In the party were representatives of Keith's Theatre, Mayor Hibbard of Boston, Mayor Wardwell of Cambridge, Superintendent Newton of the Boston Bridge Department, Patrolman John Griffiths of City Hill Police Station, who fastened the shackles on Houdini, newspapermen and others.

Houdini mounted a platform on the bridge, where the shackles were fastened on in full view of the crowd. His hands were drawn behind his back and fastened to chains extending up and around his neck and dividing to either arm. The weight was so strong that Houdini said he would not risk a dive but would jump.

He sprang off from the north side of the bridge and thirty-one seconds later appeared on the surface, about 150 feet from the spot where he jumped in. His shackles were off.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, April 30.—There was trouble brewing when the Giants came on the battlefield for the windup of the series with the Doves, and the fans were sure of seeing some glittering diamond pictures before the sun sank in the western horizon.

McGraw was out to log the final chance, and read the riot act to his men before the bats sounded, and rumors of the Giants' accountable for not showing the top goods was in for strong words of censure from Muggsy on the way back to New York.

When the scrappy little leader of Giants gets wrought up there is always some tall hustling done by his henchmen, and there was no doubt that the chief would stand for no such downfall of the Doves who upset him in the long-distance trip yesterday.

The Doves, satisfied that they had shown the Giants there was no difference in class between them, were out to do some more scalping, and needed no prodding from Head Director Joe to get after the Gothamites.

There was no member of the Doves who lacked eagerness to get into the charge and they only wished that the Giants would remain longer just to take some of the conceit out of them.

Winning the extra inning contest from the chesty Giants gave Dick a touch and the fighting crowd never worked harder to throw the books into a team.

RESUME WORK OF DYNAMITING CHELSEA RUINS

Workmen Blow Up Walls Left Standing as Menace After the Big Fire.

CONCERTS AID VICTIMS

To-day the work of dynamiting the ruins of several burned school buildings in Chelsea was resumed. Two tasks of magnitude are ahead of the dynamite workers in the removal of the walls of the Frank B. Fay school on Everett avenue, and the Shurtleff school on Essex street. A considerable portion of the Fay building remains standing and it will take considerable heavy blasting to demolish it. The Shurtleff school was at one time the Marine hospital and the walls are of massive granite blocks. Small charges of dynamite will have to be used here, because of the proximity of acres of tenements which escaped the great fire.

The work of razing the dangerous ruins proceeded rapidly yesterday. The heavy blasts which demolished old school walls were plainly heard in Boston.

Superintendent of Streets Walter Batchelder with a gang of workmen and a score of special police officers are in charge of the task.

Blow Up Church Tower.

The Central Congregational Church tower, situated at the corner of Fifth and Chestnut streets, was the first of the ruins to be blown up yesterday. Three attempts were made before the dynamite applied over. As a result of the first blast a brick was hurled several hundred feet through the air and went crashing into the portable office building of Charles Harris, an undertaker, on Washington avenue.

The ruins of the Williams Grammar School were razed without difficulty, while at the Highland School at the corner of the Highland avenue and Cottage street, which was blasted about 4 o'clock, the heaviest charges which have been used in Chelsea were found necessary.

Schools Reopened.

Yesterday the Chelsea High School was reopened for the accommodation of pupils. It is planned to have the pupils of the Sagrifeff Grammar School use the High School building afternoons.

Martin Marchiel, the Italian found prowling about the ruins on Bellingham Hill, was fined $15 by Judge Bossio for carrying a blackjack and a loaded revolver, and for drunkenness he was sentenced to thirty days. He appealed.

Lee, Higginson & Co. reported the relief fund last night as $305,484.02.

Benefit Concerts.

The entertainment given by the Die Deutsche Gesellshaft society in Hunting ton Chambers, Huntington avenue, Back Bay, last night for the benefit of the Chelsea Relief Fund was a pronounced success, fully one thousand persons being in attendance.

The program was opened by a reading of popular American and German airs by an orchestra composed of members of the society. Miss Rebecca Berenson Segal of Mass.

Miss Rebecca B. Segal, Who Directed Concert for Chelsea Sufferers

Dorchester sang several selections, among them being, "The Way of June" by Clarke. Miss Segal was accompanied by her sister, Miss Anne Segal. Among others who contributed were Samuel L. Gorodesky, violinist; Lillian Gorolston, pianist, and Jennie Leiman, reader.

A benefit concert in the aid of the Chelsea sufferers was given by the Cambridge Y. M. C. A. at its hall in Cambridge last night, and a large sum of money raised.

FALL RIVER MAN SEEKS CHELSEA CHILD TO ADOPT

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I have been a reader of your paper for a number of years, and would like to ask if you will let me know how I could adopt one of the children of the Chelsea fire sufferers.

I would like to adopt a girl between three and four years of age. I am married and have a boy six years old. We lost a little girl last Winter through scarlet fever, and we would like to get a little girl to fill her place in the house.

I am a bill poster, thirty-one years old, and work steadily throughout the year. Neither my wife nor myself touch a drop of liquor.

If you wish any further information about me I shall be pleased to tell you.

FISKE WARREN SAYS FILIPINOS ARE RESTLESS

Noted Anti-Imperialist, Arriving on Saxonia, Promises Revelations.

ANXIOUS FOR LIBERTY

Declaring that the Filipinos to-day are more anxious for independence than they ever were, and that a spirit of unrest is abroad in the Islands, Fiske Warren, the noted anti-imperialist, intimates that he shortly will have some startling things to reveal to the people of this country about the conditions in the Philippines.

Mr. Warren arrived home to-day from Europe and Asia on the Cunarder Saxonia, Captain Pentecost, who celebrated her first visit to East Boston after a very pleasant run from Liverpool. There were forty-one saloon, 242 second cabin and 800 steerage passengers aboard the big Cunarder.

"I don't wish to say very much about the impressions I gathered on this my first journey to the Philippines," said Mr. Warren courteously to the BOSTON AMERICAN reporter.

Eager for Independence.

"At the proper time and in the proper way I will acquaint the American people with what I learned in the United possessions of the Far Pacific. I can say, however, that the Filipino desire for independence is increasing. The Filipinos are becoming more and more restless. They fear that Japan has a desire to annex their islands, but they prefer the rule of their American conquerors to that of the Japs, as they realize how Corea has been exploited by Japan. They know that a large party in the United States favors their independence and that is why they are so restless under the rule of Japan government.

"At least one-third less land is under cultivation in the Philippines to-day than was the case when I was there four years ago. Manila is the theatre place of the Philippines. No American can get a real idea of American rule in the Islands who simply visits Manila and its surroundings. The interior of the Islands is by no means good condition. The roads are wretched. I broke up my bicycle trying to traverse some of them. There are few good military roads.

Promises Some Surprises.

"The greater part of the Philippines revenue is being expended in Manila and the surrounding country. This is the home place of the Americans while the rest of it is in far different condition. When I say what I have to say later and in my own way I will probably tell the American people many things they do not know."

BURGLAR FLEES AS BROOKLINE WOMAN SHOOTS

The burglar who started to break into the home of Walter B. Farmer at No. 75 Sewall avenue, Brookline, during the night ran back his footsteps since he found he didn't succeed, for Mrs. Farmer is an accurate soul, has a revolver handy and knows how to use it.

Mrs. Farmer, who was alone in the house with her child at the time, didn't wait for the burglar to get in. She heard him moving around the cellar and fired at once. Mrs. Farmer stepped to the nearest window and fired two shots, aiming toward the ground on the side, would be safe to send any stray bullets into neighboring homes.

Mrs. Farmer takes the matter coolly enough to-day, saying:

"We were prepared for just this emergency since our house was entered early in the winter. I had retired last night, but awoke toward 4 o'clock. A little later I heard the noise of some one working around outside the house. Then our dog began to growl. I listened till I was sure some one was trying to get in. I knew it wasn't Mr. Farmer, because he was away on business that required him to be out of town over night.

"I am not afraid of a revolver. In fact, I am a fair target shot, having practiced with revolver and rifle since I was married. I knew that if I simply went to the window and screamed that any burglar would immediately know a woman was alone in the house.

"I got up, took the revolver we keep in the bedroom and fired two shots, knowing that would scare the burglar and that the bullets would not hurt any one.

"The shots did both. The burglar disappeared, and a wagon-load of policemen came down from Brookline police station. The officers sleuthed around, but the burglar was safely away. Mrs. Farmer went back to bed and the watchdog resumed his slumbers.

When Mr. Farmer returned home a little before noon to-day he was surprised to hear what had happened, but naturally pleased that his wife had handled the situation so ably.

HISSEN TO LEAD MARCH AT BALL

At the first annual ball of the Malden Independence League Club to be held in Murie Hall, in the Brown building, Malden, Friday evening, Thomas L. Hissen, candidate for Governor last year on the Independence League ticket, will lead the grand march with Mrs. Hissen, and there will be a brief speech on the aims and purposes of the League by Charles O. Power, State Secretary.

Preceding the ball there will be a concert. Some novel features are being introduced. Special entertainments are being prepared by the pretty Malden young women who will take part in the Merry Widow waltz, and this event, it is promised by those in charge, will be a feature of the dance programme.

REV. MORGAN DIX DIES AT AGE OF 81

NEW YORK, April 30.—Dr. Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity parish since 1862, and one of the city's most prominent clergymen, died last night at Trinity rectory in West Twenty-fifth street. Death was due to heart failure and followed a brief illness, which took a serious turn three days ago.

Dr. Dix was a son of General John A. Dix, author of the famous despatch, "If any one attempts to haul down the American flag shoot him on the spot."

JACKSON CLUB ANNUAL DANCE

The tenth annual ball of the Jackson City of Ward 3, Charlestown, will be held in Bunghan Hall, to-morrow evening.

Among the invited guests will be former Mayors Fitzgerald of Boston and McCanes of Cambridge, Registrar of Probate Arthur W. Dolan, Registrar of Deeds William T. A. Fitzgerald, former Superintendent of Supplies Mitchell and others.

SAVES OLD MAN FROM SUICIDE

With a rope about his neck and his pockets filled with stones, an aged man, who gave his name as George F. Burbank of No. 32 Princeton street, Lowell, was just about to jump off the Congress street bridge at daybreak to-day when Patrolman Kennedy of station 2 caught sight of him and took him into custody.

Burbank is being detained at the City Prison.

BUILDING BIG AIRSHIP ON BASEBALL GROUNDS

BOSTON MEN HOPE TO BREAK RECORDS AND INTEREST WAR DEPARTMENT.

The "mystery" of the Huntington avenue baseball grounds is out.

Hundreds who have been trying several days to figure out the meaning of a mammoth white canvas that last spread out upon the grass, near the right field fence, and the industrious operations each day of four young men, who looked wise and turned away when questions were asked, can rest easily at last.

The "mystery" is the skeleton of a mammoth airship, this afternoon under course of final construction.

The builders are Edward W. McGregor and Merle Prancis, two Boston young men, and when their invention is completed and ready for its first flight they think the clouds is a few days they say they will show floated an airship in every way surpassing anything ever built.

To Give Public Exhibition.

A public exhibition will be given next week. If the machine fulfills expectations, Mr. McGregor says he an this partner will endeavor to interest officials of the War Department and Washington and have the ship incorporated into the navy for use in war times. Before this time, however, they plan to give the public opportunity to behold what is the result of his invention.

The airship is to be christened "Peacemaker." It is to be equipped with a gun big made of a fine grade of aluminum, measuring seventy feet over all, and four propellers. In most other airships only one or two propellers were used. The machine is built to carry 250 pounds besides the operator, and hydrogen gas will be used.

The secrecy surrounding the construction, it was explained to-day, was because the builders did not want the public to know what they were doing until the machine was in perfect readiness for flight. For that reason they refused to let even their best friends visit they were doing. Now that the secret is out, the young men say they might as well explain all that the public might reasonably want to know about it.

Has Some New Features.

"Everything in the machine," said Mc Gregor to-day, "is the product of our own efforts. With two assistants we manufactured everything ourselves, even did the sewing on the canvas. We used nothing instead of ordinary cotton cloth, believe it to be the more durable. Examination has proved that it is very strong and tough.

"The ship will contain features that no other airship inventor ever dreamed of. We have also the biggest motor ever put in that we will be able to stop it within twenty or three feet of the spot given and will be equipped with electric wheels so that it may be operated on the ground as well as in the air. In this we will also given a chance to see it in operation next week.

"We have put our own money, our own ideas and our own time into the thing, and we are anxious to 'make good with it.'

TUTTLE YIELDS TO B. & M. ON WAGE QUESTION

CHIEF LAUDED BY EMPLOYES, WHO PLEDGE RENEWED EFFORTS FOR ROAD.

That the employes of the Boston & Maine railroad will show their appreciation to President Tuttle by continued hard work and loyal service as well as by a ready accession to their wishes in not reducing wages, was the declaration to-day on behalf of organized labor by F. B. Sears, chairman of the Conductors' Board of Adjustment, and W. S. Keay, chairman of the Trainmen's Board. Both were present at the interview with President Tuttle and other officers of the road yesterday when President Tuttle announced that all the members of the road's employes had voted against the proposition to reduce wages 10 per cent., he had decided to maintain the present wage scale.

Others Used Method.

These two men, in a joint interview with the Boston AMERICAN to-day, said: "Probably no other president in the country could have received a banker's dozen of votes on a proposition similar to the one made by President Tuttle last March that the men voluntarily reduce their own wages 5 per cent. The reason for the big vote given to President Tuttle was wholly due to the fact that the men in the past have been granted concessions second to none in the country," continued Trainmen's Mr. Tuttle was disappointed in not getting an entire reduction decision, but he did not was due to the fact that the managers of other railroads would, in fact, were at the time using his methods, but unfortunately, for whom the same sentiment among the men or similar economic conditions did not exist.

"If the plan, as proposed by President Tuttle to the international unions, could have been adopted the Boston & Maine system itself, there is no doubt but what a unanimous vote in favor of the plan would have been obtained.

To Maintain High Standard.

"It is our desire and intention to keep up the standard of our labor that President Tuttle will never regret the liberal which he has taken in behalf of his employes.

"We believe that the loyalty of the employes of a railroad is its resources and we intend to make an honest effort to prove the practical value of this loyalty which exists strongly in the ranks of organized labor on this system."

'HE PINCHED ME', ACTRESS' PLEA IN COURT

Forthwith She Attacked Strong Officer Who Challenged Stage Trick.

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, April 30.—"He pinched me, Judge. That's why I attacked him."

Pretty Annie Abbott, a vaudeville performer, offered the foregoing explanation to Judge McDonough in Superior Court to-day to a charge of assault and battery upon Thomas A. Doherty, a young Fall River man.

"And I suppose when he went to pick you up," the Judge commented, "you took hold of you as he would a bag of potatoes. Still the offence stands."

Miss Abbott was fined $20.

The assault took place on the stage of the Premier Theatre, with the audience as spectators. Monday evening. Miss Abbott has been advertising herself as possessed of a "power of resistance" sufficient to prevent anyone from lifting her off a chair on the stage.

She offered a reward to the person who would break her power. Doherty tried it. He says he was succeeding admirably when suddenly the pretty performer started a prize fight. Police were summoned. There he had Miss Abbott arrested.

NEW BARRIER FOR CHELSEA COMMISSION

Application for Injunction Against Governor in Case Bill Reaches Him.

An application for an injunction restraining the Governor of Massachusetts from appointing a commission for the government of the City of Chelsea, providing the bill before the Legislature reaches him, will be filed in the Supreme Court to-morrow.

The petitioners are Max Waldo (also an Alderman of Chelsea), and Jacob Schoil, a property owner. The petition will be argued through Lawyer P. H. Kelley.

The petitioners contend that the Legislature or the Governor has no legal right to appoint a commission before the people have had a chance to either accept or reject the proposition by means of a referendum vote.

Mr. Schoil is a former resident of Boston, Tex., where a commission was assigned, but only after the matter had been passed upon by the people at a special election held for the purpose. He was a prominent lawyer in Houston, and was among those understood to have been started in the house in Texas that the first law ferred with the issuance of the same.

IMPOSES LIMIT OF $20 FINE ON SWIFT; APPEALS

Regretting that the law would not allow him to send Morrison J. Swift to jail, even finding him guilty of peddling handbills on the streets and declaring that Swift is "an dangerous person to be at large," Judge Bennett, in the third session of the Municipal Court, to-day imposed upon the leader of the "army of unemployed" the maximum penalty, a fine of $20. Swift appealed. Unable to furnish bail of $100 he went to Charles street jail.

Sergeant Joseph Sweeney of District 3 read to the court the handbill distributed by Swift.

"Don't you think," inquired Judge Bennett, "that such a handbill might inflame your army and lead to violence?"

"No," replied Swift: "we never resort to violence."

Swift made a lengthy address to the court before sentence was imposed, declaring that the laws were arbitrary and bore heavily upon the poor and unfortunate.

POPE BARS PRINCE AND MME. GOULD

ROME, April 30.—The Prince de Sagan and Mme. Anna Gould, the divorced wife of De Sagan's cousin, arrived here in connection with a papal audience.

Interest centers in various reports concerning the object of their visit. It is said upon excellent authority that while they were at Naples they sent emissaries to the Vatican to attempt to arrange an interview for the Prince and Mme. Gould with the Pope.

The efforts of the agent were futile, however. It was learned today that the Pope is very untoward towards the marriage of divorced persons, especially those of the rank of the Prince and Mme. Gould. This make it evident that there is a barrier.

The secret of sex discovered at last? Professor Romme, the French scientist, says that weak fathers have sons; weak mothers have girls—and explains how sex may be controlled. See next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

"MAKE HUBBY VOTE THE WAY YOU WANT HIM"

—Miss Etta Sullivan

Boston Clubwomen Off to Tell President They Don't Want Suffrage.

THEY HAVE BETTER PLAN

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Miss Etta Sullivan of the Shawmut Club, Boston, one of 150 women delegates en route from Boston to Washington to an anti-suffrage convention, says she is going to tell President Roosevelt that she is opposed to woman suffrage, and that as soon as she gets a husband she is going to make him vote the way she thinks, instead of trying to vote herself.

Miss Sullivan said to-day:

"I am down as one of the speakers and I am going on record as opposed in every particular to the ballot for women. I am going to tell the President so, too, and I am also going to tell him that as soon as I find a husband I am going to take an interest in politics, but instead of wanting to vote I am going to make by husband vote the way I think.

The Way to Do It.

"If every woman could wield such an influence over her husband she would receive the rights of the ballot without marring the peace and calm of home life.

Another Boston Club representative is the Walsh Club. Miss Sarah Gordon, Mrs. Lansing and Mrs. Cecilia Goldman are the Walsh delegates.

"I hate to run away from my husband to attend the meeting," said Mrs. Lansing, "but I am opposed to suffrage and want to go on record to that effect."

The 150 Massachusetts delegates will be reinforced in the capital city to-morrow by eighty hundred and fifty more women whose views are similar in every respect, and who, too, will tell the nation's executive that a woman's place is in close position to a baby carriage and the kitchen stove and far, far from the voting booth.

The delegates represent the National League of Women Workers from the State of Massachusetts. The organization is one for the social welfare of its members, but since the suffragette movement has started the young women have injected a little of the shine of its fashion in it.

Take Peek at Gotham.

To-day's delegation came in on the Fall River line steamship Priscilla and after viewing a few of the sky scrapers from the down the young women went to Jersey City, where they boarded a Pennsylvania train. The convention in Washington will last until Sunday. Monday those who do not will come back to New York and have a sight-seeing tour ere they return to their native homes in Massachusetts. Most of the clubs are Boston institutions. Among those represented in Manhattan to-day are the Sunshine, the Clover, the Sunshine, the Jerusalem Stars, the Friend-Workers, Co Willing Literary Club, the Shawmut and the Fall River. Three of delegates from the Shawmut are Miss Etta Sullivan, Miss Agnes Denny and Miss Grace Donovan.

2 FISHERMEN LOST IN STORM ON THE BANKS

Letters from a member of the crew of the fishing schooner Elsie, Massachusetts of this port tell of two of its crew members being drowned during a terrible gale, which upset their boat while at the trawls on St. Peter's Bank off the Nova Scotia coast, on April 17.

The men were drowned within plain sight of the crew, who made heroic efforts to save them. Patrick Corcoran was dragged from the sea apparently alive, but died soon after at the schooner's side. Mathew Wilson, the other man, sank before the rescuing party reached the upturned dory.

The body of Corcoran was buried at Mignico, N. S. Both men made their homes in Newfoundland.

MINE KILLS SAILORS.

KIEL, April 30.—Two seamen of the German battleship Elsass were killed and six others were wounded here as the result of the premature explosion of a mine, which was being used in experiment in the blowing up of obstructions in the water.

SOUTH ENRAGED AT REPORT OF NEGRO DINNER

Storm of Protest in Virginia Over Social Equality Banquet in New York.

RICHMOND, Va., April 30.—A storm of protest has been raised in Virginia and throughout the South at the discussion of social equality by the Cosmopolitan Club of New York at the banquet in that city at which white girls and women sat at a feast with negroes. It is generally stated that the action of the club can have only the result of drawing more tightly the lines separating the two races. Persons in every walk of life are open in their condemnation of the action of the white specialists and men who are supposed to have lent themselves to the idea of the future amalgamation of the black race with the Anglo-Saxon. The only effect of the action, it is declared, will be to hurt the advancement of the negro.

"It is difficult," said Governor Swanson, "to believe that the accounts published in the papers of the dinner of the Cosmopolitan Club in New York are true. It is difficult to believe that the persons were reputable, as stated, and that they could give expression to such views.

"It is such disgraceful performances as these and expressions of such views that make more difficult the solution of the negro problem, and the persons who are most injured by such actions in the North are the negro people of th South.

"There is one thing that the South is thoroughly agreed upon and upon which it will never tolerate or permit in the slightest degree, and that is any social equality for the negro. This matter is absolutely settled and admits of no discussion. The sooner the negroes and their pretended friends realize and understand this the better. The speeches and performances as appearing through press reports can bring nothing but disgust to reputable persons of the North and South."

Negro citizens have planned a mass meeting to discuss the affair in New York, and to denounce the dinner which they declare has brought renewed trouble upon the race.

BOSTON BOY'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER

GARDINER, Me., April 30.—Another body has been found in the Kennebec River in the boom of the Lawrence Brothers at Augusta.

Coroner Andrews decided it was that of a Boston boy named Sylvia, who was drowned from the steamer Ransom B. Fuller last autumn.

The body found further down the river was identified by days ago as supposed to have been Sylvia's and was buried in Potter's field here, but this one has been positively identified by friends.

POPE NOT SERIOUSLY ILL; HAS SLIGHT COLD

ROME, April 30.—The Pope is suffering from a slight cold, but his condition is not at all serious, the complaint has not even interrupted the giving of audiences.

The Pope has read with great satisfaction dispatches which he has received concerning the celebration of the centennial of the New York diocese and the splendid reception given to Cardinal Logue primate of Ireland.

MANATIQUOT CLUB DANCE.

The Bungalow, on Holmfield avenue, Mattapan, was the scene of great merriment at the dancing party of the Manatiquot Club. A musical entertainment followed the dance. The committee in charge was Harry G. Gallagher, Louis M. Marks, Daniel F. Smith and Francis C. Boyle.

WEEK'S BILLS IN HUB THEATRES STRONG ONES

Nazimova at Majestic and Richard Carle at Colonial Score Instant Successes.

Mme. Alla Nazimova at the Majestic is a remarkable actress for by-play. There are few women on the stage who are her equals in what the theatrical people call "stage business." Every gesture, every look, every intonation has a meaning.

Robert Edeson's acting in "Classmates" at the Hollis Street is regarded by many of his admirers as the very best work he has done. He has a role which is thoroughly to his individual taste.

At the Colonial Richard Carle's "Mary's Lamb" gives this author and comedian full play for his originality. He is an entertainer who seldom breaks a beaten path.

Miss May White and Miss Olive Nelson, together with Ben T. Loring, please Hub Theatre audiences greatly, if applause is a criterion.

Rose Stahl and "The Chorus Lady" are a happy combination at the Park Theatre. It seems as if, like the book, they might run on forever.

Orpheum Bill Strong.

The closing bill at the Orpheum is a strong one. Al Leech and the Three Rosebuds, the Four Fords, the Spissel brothers and Mack are among the big hits of the week.

Miss Gladys Sears is pleasing the patrons of the Howard nightly. There is a lot of talent and variety in the Parisian Belles company, which is showing there this week.

"Cowboy Sport" is a sensational specialty at the Bijou Dream. It shows what wonderful feats in horsemanship the cowpunchers exhibit on the range.

Night Owl company's chorus girls helped out the fun at the Palace Theatre after the regular performance last night. To-morrow night will be amateur night.

Gay Masqueraders are packing the Lyceum Theatre. This company is one of the most entertaining of burlesque organizations.

"Shenandoah," at the Boston, is a war play that will always be popular. It gives a great chance for startling theatrical effects and fires the patriotic heart.

"Man of Hour's" Record Run.

The remarkable run of "The Man of the Hour" at the Tremont Theatre is unbroken. It will begin its fifth month in May. The Saturday night performance will be the 125th.

To-night is amateur night at the Columbia and Manager Harry Farron says he thinks it will be the best bill of the kind ever seen there. Besides there will be the pretty Coey Corner Girls.

Richard Harlow and the Girl in Green are pleasing big audiences at the Globe Theatre. There is a lot of up-to-date fun in "1492," which is one of the most catchy musical productions Boston has ever known.

"The Ironmaster," as played at the Castle Square, is a production that even Mr. and Mrs. Kendall would have to indorse for merit. It is a human interest drama very well acted.

Vaudeville and a thrilling drama make up this week's bill at the Bowdoin Square Theatre. "Wife for Wife" is a lay that many would take to the cure of.

Campbell Stratton has convinced Grand Opera House patrons by his work as Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde that he is a versatile as well as a strong actor.

Hoodini's great can trick at Keith's is one of those things which send a theatregoer home filled with amazement.

The secret of sex discovered at last? Professor Romme, the French scientist, says that weak fathers have sons; weak mothers have girls—and explains how sex may be controlled. See next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

INDIAN WAR DANCE.

An Indian war dance by pretty young women, assisted by young men of the organization, will be a feature of the Universal Social Club's ball this evening at Roughan Hall, Charlestown. There will be Indian camps, wigwams, campfires and Indian music. The committee in charge comprises E. Goggin, G. Girth, A. Campagni, J. Cagglano, J. Webster, T. Nuttle, J. Daniels, E. Caples, T. Riesmoto, P. Manetta, C. Gogolo, F. O'Neil and Benjamin Barens.

20TH CENTURY CLUB TO HOLD CHARITY PARTY

Important Social Event to Benefit Two Catholic Institutions.

GIVEN TO-MORROW NIGHT

Members of the Twentieth Century Whist Club, composed of twenty women, will give a subscription party to-morrow night at Hotel Somerset. There will be whist and dancing. The proceeds are to be given to two Catholic charitable institutions.

Tals will be one of the most brilliant social affairs of the season in Catholic circles.

Both the lower and upper halls at the Somerset will be beautifully decorated for the event. Whist will be played in the lower hall from 8 to 10:30 o'clock. Sixteen prizes consisting of china, cut glass and pictures are to go to the winners.

Quinn's Orchestra will play for dancing in the upper hall.

Mayor Hibbard and Rev. Father Joseph A. Anderson of St. Paul's Church, Roxbury, diocesan director of charities, are the special guests. Archbishop O'Connell will not be able to be present because of the celebration of the anniversary of the archdiocese in New York.

The women who comprise the Twentieth Century Club are Mrs. Richard A. Lynch and Ashmont, president; Mrs. Daniel F. Coleman of Dorchester, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Simon Donovan, Mrs. Jas. B. Doyle and Mrs. Garrett T. Cullane of Boston; Mrs. David Mahoney and Mrs. William Lanagan of Winthrop, Mrs. Bert Dooley and Mrs. George E. Jennett of Brighton, Mrs. John J. Sullivan of Auburndale, Mrs. Joseph F. McGreenery of Roxbury, Mrs. William Bowling, Mrs. Frank W. Lavery, Mrs. P. J. Bonner, Mrs. James C. Coleman, Mrs. John Lavery, Mrs. John Shea and Mrs. John Regan of Dorchester. All these women will take an active part in the evening's entertainment.

A BEAUTIFUL PICTURE.

A reproduction of the famous painting, "A Hopeless Dawn," in handsome colors, ready for framing, will be given FREE with next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

HOLD HIGHWAYMAN ABOUT TO FLEE CITY

LYNN, April 30.—Antonio Beriano, who was wanted by the Salem police on the charge of complicity in a highway robbery in that city last Thursday, was arrested here just as he was about to board a train for Chelsea. The train was later turned over to the Salem police.

ELITE ATTEND GAY BRIDAL AT TRINITY TO-DAY

Spring's Colors Revel at the Bigelow-Burnett Wedding Ceremony.

CHURCH FINELY DECORATED.

Society flocked to Trinity Church this afternoon for the wedding there at 4 o'clock of Miss Marion Burdett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Burdett of Bay State road, and Prescott Bigelow, Jr. The church was handsomely decorated for the ceremony, with palms and pink carnations banking the chancel and large clusters of carnations tufting the guest pews.

The group of youthful attendants, in their finely gowns of white chiffon trimmed with pink pompadour satin and their pompadour hats made a most interesting foil for the girlish brunette bride in her robes of white satin and duchesse lace. Miss Florence Rawn of Chicago, the fiancee of the groom's brother, Marion Bigelow of Cambridge, Leslie Lindsay, Grace Keilen and Elizabeth Bigelow, the groom's young sister, were the bridesmaids, and Miss Mary Redfield of Philadelphia was maid of honor.

David Nevins Bigelow, who weds Miss Rawn in June, was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Paul Burdett, George Otis Ball, John Lowell, Jr., Lawrence Paine Dodge of Newburyport, Francis Walker Kemble of Philadelphia, Wheelock Bigelow of Morristown, N. J., Crawford Burton of New York, Hayden Channing of Brookline, Bradley Van Brunt of Milton and Harold Francis McNeil of Brookline, all Harvard, '08, men, classmates of the groom.

The Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity, performed the ceremony, at which the bride was given away by her father. A large reception and lunch followed at the home of the Burdetts on Bay State road.

BACK BAY SOCIETY BELLE WEDS CLUBMAN TO-DAY

Miss Marion Burdett, Who becomes the Wife of Prescott Bigelow, Jr., at Trinity Church Late this afternoon. Miss Burdett is The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett W. Burdett of Bay State road.

MULAI HAFID FLEES.

RABAT, Morocco, April 30.—Mulai Hafid, the so-called Sultan of the South, is reported here to have suffered a disaster and to have fled to Tadla, a town 127 miles southwest of Fez, where he has taken refuge with the Sidi Benfaoud tribe.

A WHITE ELEPHANT AND HER HUSBAND

The Happiness of the Family Is Often Dispelled by Fat Disease.

To have a wedding, whopping big wife is of course a misfortune for any ordinary man, but it is more of a misfortune to the wedding wife. Though she may be caged in her own house most of the time, ashamed to go out doors, the ridicule she suffers on the street is nothing compared to the suffering when among she undergoes when she has to do her housework, unless she is fortunate enough, of course, to have a servant.

To have to grunt and toddle upstairs and then grunt and toddle down again, a dozen times a day, to have to stamp around the house all day, eternally doing something, and not be able to sit down and draw an easy breath, and then when night comes to have to abort step around in a hurry and wind up the duties of the day, is a terrific wear upon the soul, more so than a sensual.

Such a condition is simply insufferable. Couple with it all, the loss of beauty and a lovely form, which is dear to every woman, the dangling flesh from cheek and chin that makes the very air seem heavy, the fat-squeeze, at the lungs that smothers the breath, and the fat-choke at the heart, it certainly does seem as though there were no more severe affliction to bear in life.

The home seems top-heavy, with a heavy, ponderous wife, or an elephant husband, trying to wheel around and make the happy lightweights believe that they are not at all to the war. It is misery trying to make other people believe you are happy and well. It is often the friend smile which burns the heart to ashes. No one likes fat, and even members of your own family must naturally feel a repugnance to you.

It can all end by using Rengo for a little while. Pound by pound will begin to drop away, melt away, vanish, safely and surely. It haven't had to change my ways, my eating or my habits, and the flesh is going away just the same," you will say to yourself with the most intense satisfaction, after beginning to eat Rengo. The one who doubts this will still be fat years after the man who believes it and who uses this remarkable fruit fat cure, Rengo.

There is nothing "just as good" as Rengo. For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per full sized box, or by mail prepaid, by The Rengo Co., 3,213 Rengo Bldg., Detroit, Mich. The company will gladly send you a trial package free by mail, if you write them direct to Detroit; no free packages at drug stores.

FEAR RELATIVES LOST IN FIRE

For over two years Mrs. Hannah Wakefield of No. 120 Child street, Jamaica Plain, has been unable to get any trace of her sister, Mrs. Rose Butler, her sister's husband, John William Butler, and their four children. She has appealed to the readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN for their assistance in locating the family.

The Butlers formerly lived at No. 22 Prescott street, Somerville. Over two years ago they moved to Chelsea. No word has been received from them since and Mrs. Wakefield is anxious to know whether they were located in the burned district and are homeless.

Mrs. Wakefield has been distracted ever since the big fire. She read in the BOSTON AMERICAN about an unknown woman and child who were found wandering about the streets, helpless, and is positive that the description fitted that of Mrs. Butler and her oldest daughter.

'EAMES' SUIT ABSURD'-STORY

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—In reply to the suit of Mme. Eames, his divorced wife, who demands $20,000 for property she alleges he has kept from her, Julian Story characterizes his former wife's charges as "absurd." He declares that he has stored furniture and bric-a-brac in Paris pending the action in one of "a large quantity of valuable silverware, some of which belongs to the Story family." When Mme. Eames returns this to him all of the property now stored in Paris and conceded to be hers will be given her, he declares.

'I'M INNOCENT,' SAYS WEALTHY THEFT SUSPECT

Young Pope, Son of Rich Brockton Family, Protests Innocence at Pittsfield.

ACCUSED OF MANY BREAKS

Special to the Boston American.

PITTSFIELD, April 30.—"I am innocent of the charges against me. I am simply the victim of circumstances," declared Harry A. Pope, the son of a wealthy Brockton family, who is confined here on charges of breaking and entering and with having a regular "Jekyll and Hyde" career, to the BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day.

When young Pope faces Judge Burke in the District Court here to-morrow, in addition to being charged with breaking and entering the store of William Nugent and Edward Rosenbaum, he will be accused of getting into the store of the Peirson Hardware Company and of with carrying burglars' tools.

Pope came here in the early part of April telling acquaintances that he was the son of a rich Brockton shoe manufacturer and that he was a traveling salesman "just for the fun of it." He is accused of making trips to the city now just to "get the lay of the land" and then with pulling off the breaks.

"I Am Not Guilty."

"I'm not guilty," said Pope to-day to the BOSTON AMERICAN man. He sat in his little cell, smooth shaven, well-dressed and at his ease and he surely did not look the part of a burglar and robber.

"It's all a mistake," he continued, speaking to the public for the first time since his sensational arrest. "I'm a victim of circumstances. I know that things look dark for me and that the prospects are not bright for my clearing myself. I have instructed my counsel, Lawyer Moore, to fight my case, as I am innocent.

"I'm going to fight every step of the way, for I know that I am merely the victim of strange circumstances, and I'm going to take advantage of everything the law will allow me. My counsel has advised me not to talk on matters bearing on my case, and I cannot tell you much.

"I do wish to say, however, that I feel that a prisoner hardly gets a fair show here. For instance, I am put under arrest, and the newspapers from day to day tell stories of my being suspected of being implicated in crimes in various cities. First, is Northampton, then North Adams and then others. Now they say I am wanted in Brockton, and that the authorities of Augusta, Me., want me. Why such stories are all bosh. I know nothing of any breaks in those cities.

"A Tough Proposition."

"Then, again, I am tied up here where I can do nothing that would go toward helping myself. I am now under $1,000 bail, but in that officer's desk over there you will find warrants from Northampton and North Adams and possibly other cities. The raising of $1,000 bail would not be a difficult matter for me, but what is the use. The moment I furnish bail for the Pittsfield cases warrants would be served from other places, and, as my counsel says, it is better that I remain here. It seems hard to remain here three months awaiting trial and still be unable to do anything that would tend to assist in clearing up the charges preferred against me.

"And don't you suppose that the jurors who are to sit in my case are reading the newspapers every day? Don't you suppose when they listen to the evidence presented in court they cannot but remember some of the many things they have read of the numerous crimes with which I am charged? This surely is a tough proposition, but there appears to be no way out of it just at present. I did not commit the crimes with which I am charged, but I must remain here without having an opportunity to square myself with the public."

STOPS BOYS ON VERGE OF DUEL

ATHOL, April 30.—Little Joseph Thomas and Myron Griffin each eleven years old, were about to fight a duel while armed with old horse pistols in the Thomas barn when the father of the first-named boy walked in and stopped the deadly conflict. The boys have been reading dime novels and decided to have a "Wild West" fight at home.

The pistols are family relics and so big that the boys could scarcely take aim.

SON TELLS HOW BANK WRECKER WARNER FLED

NORTHAMPTON, April 30.—Lewis E. Warner, son of Lewis Warner, who fled from this city ten years ago, leaving the Hampshire County Savings and the Hampshire County Savings banks with hundreds of depositors to mourn his loss, told to-day for the first time the real story of his father's escape. It was known before in most of its details, but there are a few particulars that have not before been made public.

Young Warner says that he was awakened early that morning by his aunt, who told him that something dreadful had happened. He rushed down stairs to find his father pacing back and forth in great distress, and his first words were: "Lew, everything has gone to the devil. The banks are busted, the bicycle shop is ruined and you are a bankrupt. I shall be arrested before noon."

Threatened to Kill Himself.

Pacing back and forth for two or three minutes in silence he finally said: "I guess the quickest way out of this is suicide." The son entreated his father not to add this to the other disgrace and the father said he would need legal advice.

They tried to reach T. G. Spaulding by telephone but could not, and then called another attorney, who advised Warner to leave the city until the storm had blown over, and then to return and try and straighten things out as far as possible. On this advice the young man was sent to a livery stable and a team was hitched. They started out, hardly knowing where they were going, but finally decided that Westfield would be a good point from which to take a Western train.

As they left the house neighbors were beginning to go to work and some of them recognized Mr. Warner. He at first turned his head and refused to bow, but the son expostulated, declaring that this would arouse suspicion; so Mr. Warner bowed to two or three whom they met after that.

To Albany from Westfield.

They went to Easthampton and then on the direct road to Westfield, planning to reach the railroad station just as the 11 o'clock train was to leave for the West. The young man rushed to the ticket office and purchased a ticket for Albany. He had in his pocket $600 that he had received from sales in the bicycle store the day before, and insisted that his father take that, but the latter refused to take more than $500.

It was arranged that the father should write, directing the letters to Hartford, and that the son should go to that city and receive them from the general delivery. As they were standing on the platform Division Superintendent Houghton of the New Haven road stepped up and greeted Mr. Warner. The latter was the first that led to a knowledge of the trip to Westfield. The young man, after the train had departed, did not dare go to a hotel or livery stable, but decided to start out for home. Outside the town he found a lack of hay that had been there for a load, and stopped and allowed his horse to eat this.

Found All in Confusion.

On reaching the bicycle store in Main street young Warner found that the evening papers and issued special editions, and everything was in confusion. The sheriff man to appear was Sheriff Clark. In response to inquiries the sheriff was told by the young man that he had been in Hatfield all day selling bicycles, and had not seen his father since early that morning.

Soon reporters began to appear, and then Deputy Sheriff Bell came with an attachment upon the stock of goods. On reaching home Mr. Warner found detectives surrounding the house, but they secured no information from him. He made several trips to Hartford, and heard nothing from his father until news came that he had been arrested in Lobkwitz, Ky.

Warner's term in State prison ends next November 9.

AMELIA BINGHAM RALLIES MAY ESCAPE OPERATION

NOTED ACTRESS RESTING QUIETLY TO-DAY, BUT HER CONDITION IS STILL CRITICAL.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Amelia Bingham, the actress, who has been seriously ill at her home, No. 40 East Thirty-fifth street, is resting quietly to-day. It was at first feared that an operation would be necessary, but her improvement makes the physicians believe that this may not be necessary.

Mrs. Bingham is suffering from acute intestinal obstruction, complicated with peritonitis. The attack was very sudden.

More serious operation.

Mrs. Bingham closed her road tour in a "A Modern Lady Godiva" about two weeks ago, and returned to New York to rest, pending an engagement which she was to undertake next month. With her husband and a party of friends she took supper at the Hotel Plaza last Sunday night and apparently was in the best of health, but a few minutes after her return home she became violently ill.

Tuesday night a preliminary operation was performed, and it seemed to bring some measure of relief, but yesterday the condition of the actress took a turn for the worse, and hope was almost abandoned.

The three physicians consulted to-day as to the advisability of performing a more serious operation and are now awaiting developments before resorting to extreme measures.

A Versatile Woman.

Mrs. Bingham has long occupied the most unique position of any woman on the stage. She produced her own plays, managed her companies, rehearsed her players, superintended the construction of scenery, designed the dresses worn by herself and the women of her companies, furnished ideas for advertising, read manuscripts and made a name for herself as an artist, milliner and designer of wood. She exercised personal supervision over her investments in real estate and securities, conducted a large household and still found time to deliver lectures and give elaborate entertainments for her friends. Since the days of Laura Keene she is the first woman clever enough to produce and create at the same time. She worked sixteen hours a day.

On Stage Fifteen Years.

Her career has covered less than fifteen years, but during that time she made rapid advancement. She made her start as an actress through an accident. She was traveling with her husband, a member of a company, when an actress fell ill. Mrs. Bingham filled the vacancy and her appearance was a success. Soon she got a training with a stock company in Canada. Then came other engagements, and finally she became identified with Frohman productions in New York. In 1900 she produced Clyde Fitch's "The Climbers," which was her greatest success.

Mrs. Bingham was born in Ohio and was educated in the Wesleyan University of that State. She showed then a trend toward literature rather than toward the drama, although she was signally successful in the amateur performances frequently given by the students.

Miss Bingham's first appearance in New York was made in the People's Theatre on the Bowery in "The Struggle of Life." In pursuance of her resolve—"to be the leading woman of a Broadway theatre in five years or leave the stage"—she refused offers for the "road" and determined to "pile" in that city. Her next engagement was at Niblo's Theatre in "The Power of Gold." Then she moved a little farther up town to the Fourteenth Street Theatre in "The Village Postmaster." From there she progressed to the American Theatre, playing in "Captain Impudence" and in the revival of the Bowery drama.

Under Charles Frohman Miss Bingham began her triumphal march up Broadway. She halted for breathing spells at the Madison Square Theatre in "On and Off" and "The Proper Caper" and at Wallack's Theatre in "At the White Horse Tavern" and "The Cuckoo," and from there was chosen to replace Miss Jessie Millward in "His Excellency the Governor" at the Empire Theatre.

All the time she worked with one idea in mind—to become a Broadway star and to produce her own plays. She won her ambition, when she produced "The Climbers," which was so successful that she immediately took a place at the top of her profession. In later years she found it difficult to maintain the standard of her first success. She had other plays from Fitch, but none became so popular as the first.

FIREMEN FIGHT HOSPITAL FIRE AS BABIES SLEEP

While firemen fought a chimney fire at the Children's Hospital, early to-day, most of the little patients slept peacefully through all the excitement.

The firemen worked very quietly in order not to alarm the children, as there might have been a serious panic had they known of the matter.

A little smoke got into one of the wards, but very few of the children were awakened and the officials of the hospital reassured those.

Fire extinguishers were used by the firemen instead of hose, as these could be handled more quietly.

FOREIGNERS IN SIAMESE TOWN FIGHT FANATICS

Natives Bent on Pillaging Battambang Besiege Europeans.

100 BATTLE FOR LIFE

SAIGON, French Cochin China, April 30.—Fortified in the foreign quarter, the small European population of the Siamese town of Battambang is reported desperately resisting an attack by native fanatics bent on sacking the quarter and murdering its inhabitants.

The town is in the French sphere of influence, but the number of troops there is barely sufficient for police purposes under the most favorable conditions. It is presumed they have already fallen or are penned up with the civilians, aiding the latter in the defence.

It is not clear how the revolt started. The town is the centre of a rich mineral district, in the development of which most of the European residents are engaged. They have had several disputes recently with native labor and it is conjectured the present outbreak is a culmination of these difficulties.

The number of foreigners at Battambang is small—probably less than 100—and consists of a group of French mining experts, one or two traders and the families of a few of the number.

Aid has been sent to the little garrison's relief from Bangkok and Chantaboh, but the country outside the larger towns is also in a disturbed condition and if fighting occurs on the road, there may be much delay in reaching the scene of struggle.

The telegraph to Battambang is interrupted, so that the latest developments are unknown. The most recent news is by way of Bangkok and Chantaboh.

Poor little Willie Vanderbilt! "Where's your papa?" asked little Cousin Kathleen of Alfred Vanderbilt's deserted son. "Don't Uncle Alfred ever bring you things and play with you like my papa does every single day?" See next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

"JEKYLL AND HYDE" PLAYS ENTIRE WEEK

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," the play which is filling the Grand Opera House at every performance this week, continues till after the Saturday night performance. It has been incorrectly stated that the play closes with Sa...y's afternoon performance.

'LET THEM CRUCIFY ME,' SAYS SLAYER OF CHILD

CHIEF OF "DEVIL CHASERS" DECLARES HE KILLED GIRL BY DIVINE COMMAND.

EASTON, Pa., April 30.—"I killed the child. Let them crucify me. I can bear my cross. God directed my arm, and it was by God's direction that I acted. I have seen second light. I choked her to death with my two hands. She was possessed of the devil, and I bumped her head upon the floor to be sure she was dead, because God spoke to me through my brain. I cannot have any regrets, because what I did I did through divine command," said Robert Bachman, confessing the killing of little May Irene Smith.

This statement was made by Bachman to-day in the Northampton County jail to one of the lucid moments by the chief of the "devil chasers," whose orgy of two days ended Monday morning in the tearing to death of the little six-year-old girl.

Sacrifice to Religious Frenzy.

Phillip Collins, the warden of the prison, and a reporter, listened aghast as the man dared to tell of the horrors of that frenzied orgy. Bachman whispered avidly his confession through the steel bars of his cell door.

He was not told that the coroner's jury had returned a verdict that "May Irene Smith had come to her death by strangulation at the hands of Robert Bachman. In the presence of Henry Smith, the father, and Mabel Smith, the mother" of the murdered child, had been offered as a sacrifice to the religious frenzy of the devil self.

Time and again Bachman repeats this horrid confession, or declaration of faith of the "Devil Chasers" in his little cell. At other times the very devils themselves seem to gain possession of him, for he throws himself on the stone floor and rolls over and over, beating his head against the steel bars and the walls. At times strong guards have had to rush in to prevent him killing himself.

"It Was God's Will."

Henry Smith, the crazed father, who saw willingly his own child torn to pieces before his very eyes in that midnight feast of blood, raves in a cell in the jail not far from where Bachman, the priest of murder, howls and tears his hair. Smith is dazed at times, and then he rouses and shouts:

"It was God's will. Bob knew why it should be. He knew all about it. Why should a poor sinner like me question the ways of the God of wrath? Bob said that a devil was devouring the soul of Irene. He killed her at God's command. But it will be all right. Bob's going to be crucified, and then there will be a glorious ending to all our troubles."

But Mabel Smith, the mother, suffers the greatest anguish of all of that strange sect, for she has returned to her right mind. The instinct of motherhood has proven stronger than religious fanaticism and mania, and to-day she is refusing to eat and sits sobbing in her lonely cell.

"Oh, why did I let them kill my baby Rena," she wails as she rocks herself to and fro on the floor of her cell, for she has prostrated herself before the "devil chasers" and will not rise. "Why did I let them kill my baby?"

"My Child Murdered."

"Whether it was in the name of religion or not, Bob Bachman has murdered my child. Now I will say with the leadings of the 'Devil Chasers.' Bob has been talking to Henry at this for several weeks about joining, but I always refused. I have gone to church regularly, as directed, and the Methodist teachings were always good enough for me. But Henry became impressed and insisted, and, finally, to keep peace in the family, I agreed.

"I should now what the means. Our little Rena has been the 'blood sacrifice.' If I had only yielded to my first impulse and left her at home with a neighbor she would have been alive to-day.

"But Henry said it would do her no harm to attend the meeting. It breaks my heart now to think that we even denied the little thing the food she cried for on Sunday. None of us cared for anything to eat, for we were so impressed by the services. Even I, who had gone there unbelieving, found myself as much impressed as the others.

"Mandate of the Throne."

"They danced, shouted, broke furniture and beat devils out of each other. Some one thought they saw a devil on me, and my best silk waist was torn. Then I lost the power of reasoning. I thought I heard Rena scream and tried to go to her, but one of the women grabbed me and said: 'Oh, it's only another chicken being offered up.'

"We had already killed several of Bob's chickens, as well as his collie dog, so I thought nothing more of it. Then there came a terrific cry above all the others, and I knew then it was Rena. I rushed into the room where Bob had put her when she called for food, and there was Bob holding her head in a funny way.

"The devil's gone," he yelled to me.

"'You've killed her,' I said, and tried to strike him. But Henry held me back.

"'Do not interfere with the mandate of the throne,' he said.

"Then I remember nothing more distinctly until I awoke in this jail."

GIRL "SACRIFICED," AND MOTHER.

Six-year-old May Irene Smith, slain in wild orgy of "Devil Chasers," and Mrs. Henry Smith, now nearly crazed with remorse for permitting the death of her daughter.

LEAGUERS PLAN BANQUET AFTER CONVENTION

Committee Assured of Brilliant List of Speakers at the Gathering.

To add to the interest of the Independence League State convention a week from Saturday there will be a banquet and reception on the night of convention day with good speaking and music.

The convention takes place in Faneuil Hall, Saturday, May 8, at 12.30 noon. It is called to elect delegates to the national convention of the Independence League.

The banquet and reception, under the auspices of the Boston City Committee of the League, will take place that night in the Quincy House. The reception will be from 8 to 2 o'clock. At the latter hour the banquet room doors will be opened for the more formal festivities.

Tickets for the function will be ready after to-day. They may be purchased at the local Independence League headquarters, room 248 Old South building, or from W. C. Johnson at the City Hall drug store on School street. Price of tickets is $1.50.

The committee on the banquet is assured of prominent speakers from other States to respond to appropriate toasts.

The committee announces that it has hopes of securing, among other speakers, John Temple Graves of New York, formerly of Atlanta, Ga.; Charles E. Gehring, chairman of the New York county committee of the league; James H. O'Neill and Thomas L. Hisgen of Springfield, the popular head of the league ticket in the Massachusetts State campaign last Fall.

An orchestra will be present to intersperse the speaking with popular airs.

The banquet committee will be in session Sunday afternoon, May 3, from 4 to 6 o'clock at the League headquarters in the Old South building to furnish any information desired relative to the banquet and to the plans of local delegates for entertaining out-of-town friends.

Tickets may also be secured from the committee at that time.

CARDINAL LOGUE TO BE GUEST OF CATHOLIC CLUB

Thousands Throng New York Cathedral at Centenary Requiem Services.

CHANT PONTIFICIAL MASS

NEW YORK, April 30.—To-day's celebration of the Catholic centenary took the form of a pontifical requiem mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral for the deceased prelates and priests of the diocese; a special mass at Holy Cross Church on West Forty-second street for the Maynooth Seminary Union of America; a luncheon to Cardinal Logue by the Maynooth Seminary Union at the Hotel Astor, and a reception to the cardinal at the Catholic Club at 8 p. m.

Cardinal Logue attended the mass at Holy Cross Church at 10 a. m. The celebrant was Bishop Browne of Cloyne, Queenstown. Cardinal Logue and the Rev. Dr. McGrady, pastor of the Holy Cross Church, are graduates of Maynooth College in Ireland.

The pontifical requiem mass was celebrated at the cathedral at 10 a. m. in the presence of a great throng. The crowds were compelled to use the side entrances to the cathedral because of the grandstand, now almost completed, which blocked the main entrance on Fifth avenue. The grandstand will seat 8,000 to witness Saturday's great parade.

The celebrant of the mass was the Rt. Rev. John J. O'Connor, bishop of Newark; preacher, the Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Cusack, D. D., auxiliary bishop of New York; preacher's assistant, the Rt. Rev. John J. Swift; deacon, Rev. W. J. Singleton, D. D.; sub-deacon, Rev. W. R. Martin.

The sermon was preached by Cardinal Logue.

It is estimated that the "Peter's Pence" collection of the Catholic diocese of New York this year will amount to at least $300,000, which will reach the grand total of $300,000 when the returns from all the churches have been learned.

Factors of Safety

The human body is a wonderful machine, provided with muscular, nervous and mental energy far in excess of normal needs. In health, the organs and tissues can do double their usual amount of work without strain or friction, because they have stored energy to meet the extra demand.

When you feel "all tuckered out," these factors of safety are nearly exhausted and you need to resort to to renew the supply of energy, wherever it may be called for.

Indigestion, bilious attacks, constipation, loss of sleep, nervousness, dizzy spells, are warnings that the factor of safety in the stomach, liver, bowels or brain, is low, or nearing the danger point and needs to be replenished.

Beecham's Pills increase the supply of blood, strengthen the stomach, operate the bowels, feed the nerve cells, build tissue, and create a reserve supply of energy, which is the only natural and effective way to

DRAGS HOME OF LAMBS' CLUB INTO SCANDAL

NEW YORK, April 30.—Out of the Lambs Club has come another scandal.

A divorce suit and a suit for allocation of affections against John Tissen, the wealthy superintendent of the organization, are in progress. Two women, formerly employed as cooks, have left the club, and Mrs. Lydia Tissen, wife of the superintendent, has refused, on account of what she says occurred within the club, to take again the position of chief stewardess, which she held for fourteen years.

In a suit for divorce which Mrs. Tissen has begun she names the two cooks, Bertha Ditz and Abbie Crosby.

Michael Crosby, formerly an employe of the club, is the complainant in the alienation suit against Tissen. He has charged Tissen and his wife Abbie, who now lives at No. 441 East One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street, with misconduct. It was following the institution of Crosby's suit on March 3 last that Mrs. Tissen employed detectives to obtain evidence on which to base her suit for divorce, though she declares she was aware of Tissen's actions more than a year ago. The search for evidence led from New Orleans, where one of the co-respondents had gone, to Tissen's 14,000-acre estate in Maine, where he entertains parties of the Lambs' Club members and other friends every Summer.

Although Tissen draws a salary of $200 a week from the club and is one of the oldest employes, he is not liked by some of the members. Many of them, it is said, are in his debt to the extent of thousands of dollars. Among these is said to be Raymond Hitchcock, to whom Tissen is alleged to have lent $1,000 during the actor's recent difficulties. He has also been the rescue of many of the members sadly in arrears with their dues, and has thus helped the club itself through financial stringency.

His Maine estate, The Chimes, has come to be a sort of Summer branch of the club. One of his most frequent guests there is Dustin Farnum, whose wife is now now suing for divorce and who is named as one of the co-respondents in a suit brought by Howard Goodall against his wife.

SALARIES REDUCED BY SUPT. SULLIVAN

The department of public grounds is the latest city department compelled to retrench because of Mayor Hibbard's cutting of the annual appropriations. Superintendent D. Henry Sullivan reducing the salaries of four men from $1,500 to $1,200 a year, one of them his brother-in-law, Luke J. Doogue. The men who will receive $200 less per year are Luke J. Doogue, draughtsman; George D. Bennett, William P. Long man; and John P. O'Connell, foremen, and Warren S. Marden, general mechanic.

PRINCE WEDS DAUGHTER OF MIKADO TO-DAY

TOKIO, April 30.—The marriage of Prince Tsuneshia Tsukeda and Princess Tsuneonya Masako, eldest daughter of the Emperor, was solemnized to-day before the Imperial Sanctuary.

Both were the ancient court costume. Prince Tsukeda is a captain in the army and son of the late Prince Kitashirakawa, whose house was created from a branch of the Imperial family in 1870.

Prince Tsukeda is twenty years old and the Princess is nineteen.

TO-DAY MOST DREADED BY LIQUOR MEN

To-day is a big day among Massachusetts liquor dealers. In Boston and other cities of the Commonwealth all licenses expire to-night. To-morrow the Boston Excise Board will give out its list of new licenses granted and old licenses renewed. To those whose licenses have not been renewed on account of the objection of abutters, it means simply closing the doors and going out of business.

The no-license votes of the last local elections throughout the State take effect to-morrow. As a result, liquor selling in the cities of Worcester, Lynn and Haverhill ceases after 12 o'clock to-night.

While Boston liquor dealers are to-day waiting on the anxious seat, there is decided grim certainty among the dealers in Worcester, Lynn and Haverhill, and they are closing up shop and moving their fixtures in the hope that at the next election, one year hence, the vote will be in favor of license.

Worcester will be the largest prohibition city in the world to have declared against liquor selling by local vote. Thirty wholesale dealers, fifteen clubs and seventy-six saloons will close their doors to-night, throwing out of employment over 2,000 persons. In Lynn seventy places will close their doors to-night, and in Haverhill the number is also seventy.

In the cities which have gone no-license the "pony" express business is expected to spring up as a means of bringing liquor to householders from licensed cities.

The prohibition forces won a victory to-day when they succeeded in convincing the Worcester licensing board to refuse licenses to two ne wmony express companies to permit them to carry liquor. Seven regularly established express companies were given their usual licenses. These are the Adams, American, Earl & Prey, Boston & Worcester, Thompson's, National and the Worcester & Boston Dispatch Express Company. Licenses were refused the Inter-City and the Marlboro & Worcester Express Companies.

TWO MONTHS FOR STEALING BRASS

Charged with stealing quantities of brass goods from the Walworth Manufacturing Company, Edward G. Robinson of O street, South Boston, was sentenced to two months in the House of Correction by Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court to-day.

What Can a Wife Do to Help Her Husband?

By DOROTHY DIX

SUPPOSE, dear madam, that your husband is a professional man.

Let us say for argument that he is a physician. He is intelligent and well prepared, but he is poor, with few patients, and about a million miles from the electric brougham in which you would like to see him stopping at the doors of millionaires. You are also intelligent, well educated and much more ambitious than your husband is.

You read in the papers of the famous fees that successful doctors' wives have, and you dream of a time when you also shall be able to indulge in those luxuries.

In the midst of your speculations and vague ambitions for the future bear this in mind, dear lady—that if your husband arrives you will have to travel the pace with him.

Wives Make Men

NINETY-NINE times out of a hundred it is the doctor's wife who settles the rung of the ladder on which he stands. A woman can wreck any professional man's fortune by selfishness and idlocy, or she can make it by intelligence and liberality and devotion.

But what can you do to help along your particular man?

In the first place you can refrain from being jealous. It is a doctor's business to make himself agreeable to his women patients, and unless the woman who marries him has got enough sense to realize this and enough loyalty to trust him, she should be humane enough to refrain from marrying him.

It is to the wife's interest no less than the husband's that rich women with imaginary complaints should divert themselves by sending for the doctor, but in the face of this there are tens of thousands of physicians whose practice is virtually ruined by jealous wives who cannot endure to think of their husbands listening to the complaints of any woman except themselves.

Every time you make a scene about baby feeling the pulse of a lady in a pink silk and lace negligee, you are simply putting a spoke in the wheel of success and, incidentally, into your own head also.

You can put your husband's profession and his duty to his patients above your own pleasure.

Doubtless it is a disappointment to have your husband called away five minutes before dinner, when you had spent hours cooking just the things he liked.

Nobody will dispute that it is aggravating for him to be telephoned for just as you are putting on your hat to start to the theatre.

Hard, but It Pays

NOBODY can blame you if you shed a tear of disappointment when old Mrs. Simmons sends it into her head to die every night you were invited to a party, and had a new dress for it, too. But for heaven's sake if you really want to go to a party, if you are an intelligent, human being and not a fool, go off and shed your tear in private. Simulate cheerful amusement, and instead of entreating John to stay, get out the fur-lined overcoat and the bustle him off with a bright word of appreciation as the coupe comes in sight. Action on how the calls are coming in.

There is a place to go for everything that we get in this world, and the poor man and the rich one got to put up their pleasure, and inclination to the stern necessities for success.

There is no known record of any doctor ever having been genius enough to get a big practice who had a wife who insisted in his coat-tail keeping him from going to see his patients except when there was anything else to do.

You can make friends for your husband To the lay mind all doctors, until they get way up in it, look alike. Those of us who have headaches, and stomachaches, and the rheumatism, and teething babies, do not know the difference between Dr. Tweedledum and Dr. Tweedledee, but we are just as liable to send for one of them as we are for the other.

That is, on the man's account. But in the Browning Club, or in the ladies' aids, or in the church society, we meet the wife of Hartford, and Channing, and tactful little Mrs. Tweedledee; and therefore, if anybody we are ailing nobody but Dr. Tweedledee will do for us.

Or we have already called in Dr. Tweedledum, who is really a wonderful and scientific, but on an evil day we encounter Mrs. Tweedledum, who gives us a good cat scratch or two, and the next time we are sick we call in one of the other doctors, the unfortunate man who is her husband.

Wrecked by Wife

ONE of the very finest doctors that I have ever known, a man who deserves, by right of his attainments, to stand at the very head of his profession, is miserably poor little country doctor, who has been driven from neighborhood to neighborhood by a shrewish wife's temper and her tongue.

One can hope that your husband abreast of his profession by giving himself completely to study. It probably would be a great deal more diverting for you to go out and spend the evening entertaining you than it would be for him to shoulder the latest medical journal. It probably would rest you for him to get the sleep he need and do a lot of household chores instead of grappling with somebody or other on tuberculosis or some other subject that you can't afford such luxuries when you are young and getting a start in the world.

If you want to be companionable, read along with him and talk about it afterward. The mere act of trying to explain a thing is the best sort of study, and that is in the individual's own mind.

As for the doctor, there is no better method to handicap a husband in the race of life than to load him down with household woes. A man has got just so much vitality, just so much nerve energy, and if his wife makes him exhaust that on splitting kindling, and walking the colic, and remembering to get a spool of number 40 feet of silk thread, she's done the best she knows how to make him a failure.

All this and a thousand-fold more may the woman who has a doctor for a husband do for his success.

And any woman think that to help in the making of a great physician is less glorious than to be a fine doctor herself. Sometimes it is greater to be the king-maker than it is to be the king.

JEWELED CLASPS.

WHEN all the usual luxuries are provided for women of means there must be some original and totally unnecessary excess will be seized upon by them. The new thing for evening wear seems to this description admirably, for of all luxuries they are the most luxurious.

Of designs in gold, they are studded with precious stones and used as clasps and garter buckles. Sometimes they are of floral-de-lis shape, and sometimes they are of a plain design, but always they are too magnificent for the use for which they are made.

New diamond garter buckles are made in swastika shape, and others are built on the plan of the lucky circle and serpent as set of buckles shown was designed with a golden circle and platinum serpent, a letter with a ruby eye.

"Swans Seem Whiter if Swart Crows Be By"

By NELL BRINKLEY

She's a Bullee Chum, as a Girl

The Billy Folk, Like Gold-Belted Bees, Hum and Flit and Tag Around Her

How It Turns Out, Sometimes

"AND swans seem whiter if swart crows be by." And some of the beautiful flattians have got it all figured out that way in their wise circumambient heads.

This is it: "My Lady Betty is tall and fine. She is ivory and gold; white-skinned and gilt-headed, and scarlet-mouthed and full-bodied.

She is like a gorgeous flower—full of color and humor and most beauteous to look at. And, oh, woe, woe, you plain Betty; she picks one of you out to be her very best chum.

And she's the white swan and you're the sleek, snub-nosed, swart little crow. You're too lean and thin-shouldered, and your frowsy hair, on you with the same affection and grace that they might on a thin boy.

You are lean-armed and brown-fingered and awkward, and you always twist your fingers together behind your back and sway back and forth against the furniture.

Your face is narrow and your hair black and fine and straight as a little Indian's, and you paste it down and knot it in the nape of your neck because it won't buff!

And you're a bullee foil for the warm-colored swan that can do anything in the world that's fine—walk with a wonderful grace, and sing like a bird, and paint, and dance like an angel, and paint delicately, better, she picks one of you out to be her and chatter French, and dress her thick white eyelids at the Billys.

And all you can do is play a rattling game of anything outdoors, and row a lit, and rough it, and see a joke, and listen.

And you do listen, little crow, because the swan is around.

She sees the brown shoe and the white satin diamond-buckled one in the glass at the same time, you dream wildly of dyeing the satin and stuffing sweets and Irish potatoes, and you may throw white and round around like her.

But, oh, Crow Betty, you oughtn't! Because it's jolly to see the way the whole things turns out sometimes. You are as beautiful as she in your way, that is yours; and you have as many things as she can count on the fingers of my two hands that are better and finer than what she has.

And it comes out in the end so many, many times that the bees only hum and flit and tag around the Billys, and all the sweetness comes to you. For a Billy with a bad heart and a gilt eye sees nothing but the fineness in your lean little self. He sees the quick understanding behind your eyes, and he takes the trouble to find out what you are thinking about, and he finds out that you can see a joke and can listen.

And he loves that last, because—because he's a Billy.

And he likes all the rattling fine things you can do outdoors; because heaps of Billys grow tired of satin diamond-buckled shoes that tap on polished floors, and they want a brown shoe that can give them a good kick and "banner" them over rough places.

And even sometimes, oh Betty Black Crow, a whole troop of belted bees find out that you can listen, and then even the humming and the flitting and the tagging names your days get—besides the sweetness that comes at the end. So!

TOMATO JELLY

ONE can tomatoes, four cloves, one level teaspoon salt, one-half level teaspoon paprika, one level teaspoon sugar, three level teaspoons granulated gelatine, one-half cup cold water. Cook tomatoes and seasoning fifteen minutes. Strain and add to the gelatine, which should soak in the cold water for fifteen minutes. Strain into cups with cold water and chill thoroughly. This should be prepared the day before it is to be used, unless it can stand on ice for two hours. When ready to serve remove from cups and place in lettice cups, surrounded with celery cut in small pieces and covered with French dressing. Force mayonnaise dressing through a pastry bag, forming a rose on top of each tomato, and serve.

BEST SPONGE CAKE

WEIGH any number of eggs in their shells and take an equal weight of sugar and half their weight in flour, the juice of one medium-sized lemon and any flavoring you wish. I prefer lemon for this recipe. Beat your whites until stiff, then in a good-sized bowl beat the yolks of the eggs well and beat the sugar, lemon juice and flavoring with them. Then beat or add the beaten whites, then fold or mix in the flour gently, and bake in a moderate oven about forty minutes. Many ask, "Are you not making a mistake about the sugar and flour? Do you really put in twice as much sugar as flour?" Yes. Try it and see how good it is. Have made it for nearly fifty years, and every one who has eaten it pronounce it the best sponge cake they have ever eaten. It does not dry up quickly, either. One round of eggs, etc., will make a good-sized cake in a washington pie. No baking powder is used.

CHEESE PUDDING

ONE-HALF cup bread crumbs, three-quarter cup grated cheese, one cup milk, one egg, white and yolk beaten separately; one speck baking powder, speck cayenne and a little salt. Soak the crumbs in the milk and add the cheese and seasonings and yolks of eggs. Mix well and add the beaten white or the egg. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a slow oven till firm and a golden brown about twenty-five or thirty minutes.

LINEN FOR LURES

LINEN is to be patronized this year by the milliners as a fabric with which to compose their pretty lures, and among the novelties that are just flashed across one's vision the precious original models that have cost them so much and that are guarded so jealously, there is seen in the inner sanctums of several fashionable makers of models those gow fascinations.

White satin pails linen will be used instead, tightly stretched over a cleverly modeled frame, just as satin is now. All the charming colors that are coming into fashion the delicate yet not insipid blues, pinks, browns and greens—will look very fresh and exquisite in this material.

Daily Short Story

A Twentieth Century Svengali—By Ralph Sutherland

IT was evident that she did not love him and yet it was announced that she was to marry him. I was only a boy then, but even I could see the trouble me and I sought long and earnestly for an explanation of it. As far as I could judge Mary had a distinct aversion to Henry Weston, rather than an affection for him, but, nevertheless, he seemed to dominate her life.

She would not tell me for some reason chose to keep secret the cause of that fear. I could see her almost shrink from him when he played, but she could be expected to see him or break the engagement her father had made.

What was the secret of his power? I asked myself. Why did she not go to her father, easy-going, blind Mark Tottenham, and tell him she would not marry this man? Her father was wealthy and Weston was not. Was it for money, then, who could be exceedingly affable and entertaining when he wished, although rather taciturn, but there was nothing to indicate that he had designs on my sister.

I noticed that Mary shuddered a little when her dance called, then greeted him with the usual formality, and then blinded with him to the little reception room, from which I was to time to time came strains of music.

Weston was a musician of no mean ability, and occasionally entertained us all with selections on the piano; but the evil way in which he played when they were alone together made me as being rather strange. He seldom played a selection through, but would run from one thing to keys idly, improvising or giving a few bars from one air and then a few from another.

Once when he was doing this I thought I heard a faint, "Please, please, Harry, don't," and then a half-smothered shriek, and I was on my feet in a flash. The frightened look in Mary's eyes was enough to haunt a man for life. Apparently, however, I was the only one who noticed it.

Finally, interrupting even the liberty accorded to an old friend, I spoke plainly to her father. I told him I was glad not to see him and asked her why she did not go frankly to him and tell him so and break the engagement. "Tell him to stop!" exclaimed Mary, "I—I dare not. He would kill me!"

"Nonsense, your father has only your welfare at heart now."

"No, no; not my father," she interrupted, "but Harry Weston, he has the keynote."

"The keynote! I was more mystified than ever. Why did she not go to her father for an explanation. She hurried away as Weston entered the room, but I saw by her attention seemed to frighten her and she shuddered as he played for us all the night.

"I thought you would. Well, you shall see for yourself. He is coming to-night and I will hide behind the curtains. Now, you don't let him kill me.

I went to the table and began to knock him down, drive him away from the piano at all costs.

There was a world of pathos in the earnestness with which she said that, and for the first time I began to understand the affair. There is a keynote to everything. Just the right chord will make a glass shiver into a million pieces. If the keynote of St. Patrick's Cathedral or the Flatiron Building could only be discovered, either structure might be crumpled into dust, and it is not an unknown thing for entire large great organs to fall in pieces upon the sounding of a certain note.

Mary had been carefully concealed behind the window draperies when Weston called, and it is needless to say that my interest was intense. She shuddered as he drew her toward him, but remained passive in his embrace.

"Tomorrow," he said, "we will be quiet ly married."

"No," she replied, and I could see that it was only with an effort that she forced herself to say it.

"But, I insist," he exclaimed. "I will no longer run the risk of losing you, and you promised yesterday—"

"I have changed my mind," she answered shortly.

"Do not make me angry," he said, menacingly, releasing her and going toward the piano.

"Torture"

Whether it was my presence that gave her courage I do not know, but for the first time, as she afterward told me, her spirit was roused and she defied him.

"Kill me, if you will!" she cried. "Since him she had struck the chord again, and the fateful night when you first accidentally struck that chord and saw the effect it had on me I have lived in almost constant dread of death and insanity. I have trembled whenever you have touched the keys, even in the presence of others. You have played as it seemed to me on the live nerves of my body, and from very fear forced me to give into anything you proposed. I will put a stop to it now. I will not marry you to-morrow or at any other time.

"Remember," he said softly, but nevertheless threateningly, as he seated himself at the piano and ran his fingers over the keys, "this is a power I will have always, and I tell you that I will kill, but whenever I may find you I can inflict upon you the excruciating torture that you have felt. Even at the altar this chord—"

He never finished his sentence, for as he spoke she uttered a sudden cry. Her face became deadly pale and she swayed and shook like a leaf. I sprang from behind the curtains, but before I reached him she had struck the chord again, and with a moan she collapsed and fell in a heap on the floor.

I did not handle him very gently, and when he came around he attributed it to the noise, he was in fit condition to interview a doctor. He said when he left that he would find and flog them. If he did and her father remained in the same humor as when I saw him last I am satisfied that there is one musical genius occupying a grave somewhere in Europe. But I have heard of no such travel.

The Manicure Lady Gets a New Idea of History

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

"WHO was that fellow that just went out?" asked the Head Barber. "He made a noise like money. I seen him handling you a dollar tip."

"He's a politician," said the Manicure Lady. "He's one of them Tammany fellows, and he's certainly well heeled, George.

"Just think, only two years ago he was working for two dollars a day in a meat market. Now he can't count his coin, and he must have forgotten his old friends, the way he talked to me. He thought I didn't know him, but I remember when he used to wait on me when I was buying the chops.

"I wish to secure a manicure," he says to me when he comes over to the booth. 'And please be careful of my fingers, won't you, dear, because the skin is very tender.'

"You missed it, George, when you didn't get a chance to pipe them fingernails and finger tips of his. They was awful. Did you ever see them driving piles into the river to make a foundation for a pier? Well, them five fingers of his looked like five piles after they had been struck by the triphammer—kind of celery tips, you know.

"I done the best I could, but even my best wasn't enough to make his paws look cultured.

"He didn't give me a job, I notice," said the Head Barber. "He walked out with that full beard of his standing to the breeze. Now that you have told me he was a politician, I understand. I suppose every time he sees a razor it reminds him of a chore."

Was an Awful Pest

"MAYBE so," said the Manicure Lady. "Anyhow, he was an awful pest. All he could talk about was Murphy and McCarren, and Big Tim and Little Tim and Tim Woodruff and the whole Tim family.

"Rest assured, child," he said to me, 'that if you keep as eye on the handsome gent now paying you you will soon seen me in the Senate, and then, mayse, I will beat it over to Paris and French myself up with Dick Croker to get a Parliament job. I am one of the communist people, he says, 'but as long as I can keep climbing up the ladder I ain't going to stop long enough to give my shins a rest. Watch me, watch me 'tis all I ask,' he says."

"What do you know about that?" exclaimed the Head Barber. "It's funny that an easy guy like a man makes a play that lands him in Easy street he wants to go across the water and French himself up with Dick Croker to get a Parliament job.

"Look at that Astor fellow. Didn't his grandfather get a fortune skinning muskrats and chipmunks, and didn't Astor himself keep up the good work by skinning New York tenants out of their hides with his high rents?

"Well, what do you think the old stiff did? He goes and buys the flag which was on the battleship Chesapeake, and gives it to an English museum!

Thinks Astor Did Right

"WELL, what of it?" inquired the Manicure Lady. "Wasn't it his flag after he bought it? I don't see what business it is of anybody's else if he gave it to the British Museum or sent it over here to Huber's. If I paid a big price for a flag, I would give it to a museum if I wanted to give it to."

"You're a foolish girl," said the Head Barber. "You can't be expected to have any patriotism, and that's the thing you never had no education about that they pay attention to in school.

"That was a great scrap, kiddo, and if it had not been for Admiral Farragut there is sticking up for Mr. Astor or anybody else that has got the coin to run around and transplanted to England. What do you know about the Revolutionary war?

"What do YOU know about IT?" parried the Manicure Lady.

"I had a pretty well when I was a kid at school," asserted the Head Barber. "I was born in New York to tell Frank Farrell that the Yankees had lost the game in the ninth inning. That was a awful collision, General Burgoyne lost his nerve and gave up his sword to Grant, and the war was over."

History in Drug Store

THE Manicure Lady looked her admiration. "It must be an interesting study, history," she observed. "What is the best way for me to learn some of it, and I do learn it, what good will it do me?"

"You can get a history at any drug store," replied the Head Barber. "I don't know what good it will do you, but it has certainly done me a lot to be a great for the memory.

"For instance, I was only a kid when I read the History of Ancient Greece, but I remember it same as if it was only a few years ago. I remember the Manicure Lady. "It hardly seems possible.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IS NOT APPRECIATIVE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been calling on a young lady for over a year, and have learned to love her very dearly. Every time I call I find her in some place of amusement. She always consents to go somewhere else, but not of her own accord, but never thanks me for taking her out. She never does anything unless she has enjoyed herself or not. Do you call me unappreciative or just absent-mindedness? Is it the custom for the lady to thank the gentleman or isn't it? This young lady is also very unaffectionate. I will she receives me just the same as she did the first time I called on her. I am in the same station of life as she was at that time, and I still am. I live alone, not my money. But I can't understand why she treats me so, as she has no other gentlemen friends calling on her, and she seems to take a break important engagements to be with me, and I know she cares for me. I loved me and received a half-hearted affirmative. Please tell me the way. It was given disheartened me.

Would like to make this young lady my wife, but don't want to ask her until I'm positive of her returned.

As I am a wife who would be a companion. She is not bashful, nor is she lacking in part, but she never is not there.

DOUBTFUL.

SHE certainly does not seem a very satisfactory sweetheart. You cannot expect her to show any affection for you until she is engaged to you but she might let you know that she appreciated your attentions. Perhaps she is shy and finds it hard to express herself. Why not tell her of your love, and then at least you will know where you stand.

SPURNED RICH HOME AND PRINCESS BRIDE

Batonyi in Life Story Tells How He Worked for $5 a Week.

NEWPORT, April 30.—Aurel Batonyi, the former whip, whose story of his matrimonial troubles, printed exclusively in yesterday's AMERICAN, attracted wide attention in all grades of New York society, today amplified his interview, still further taking the public into his confidence. He is still at his Newport farm.

"When I came to this country in 1889, immediately after my graduation from the University of Halle, in Germany," he said, "I had several thousands in my pocket. I saw an advertisement calling for a horse trainer the morning after my arrival, and I applied for the job at the end of Fifth avenue Riding Academy, which then occupied the site where now stands the palace of Andrew Carnegie.

"I was selected from a crowd of fifty applicants and was engaged at the munificent salary of $5 a week, about the price for one day of the room I had at the Brunswick Hotel. But I did not care. I wanted experience.

$20,000 to $30,000 a Year.

"I was soon promoted to riding master at $15 a week, but very soon left the place to begin in business for myself. I opened a place of business on Forty-second street and taught four-in-hand driving. I also took hold of the coach, 'Good Times,' which took hold of the coach, 'Good Times,' which for ten years I drove daily during the season from the Waldorf to Astoria.

"I never accepted less than $20 an hour for teaching rich men to drive four-in-hand, or less than $50 for a mount in the horse shows, and through my instruction and the coach enjoyed an income from $20,000 to $30,000 a year.

"At the time I met my wife I had a modest fortune. Throughout our married life I paid the bills, at home and while traveling abroad. Mrs. Batonyi used her $2,000 a month from her father as she pleased.

Proud to Be Independent.

"I tell you this so that you may understand that I was not a penniless adventurer. I could have remained in the home of my birth and lived as a millionaire's son, for my father is one of the richest men in Hungary.

"When I returned home in 1906, subsequent to my marriage with Mrs. Burke-Roche, but before the marriage was made public, my father offered to make over to me his property if I would remain at home. But I told him that I was proud to be a citizen of the United States and proud to be independent and preferred to live in the country of my adoption.

"At that time my wife, still bearing the name of Mrs. Burke-Roche, was in Europe and I met her in Monte Carlo, where my parents then were and came to the Metropole Hotel to see my mother's sister-in-law, who are said to be the finest in all Europe.

AUREL BATONYI.

"While there my mother told me that she had picked out a wife for me, a German Princess, and brought me to see her hand. I could not tell my mother that I was already married. Next year, while with my wife in Europe, my father, who was then very ill, again offered to make over his property to me. I again declined.

"A fat has been said about my blunt thirsty disposition because I was involved in many duels. Well, I fought dozens and dozens of duels. I forgot most of the episodes, because a duel is of frequent occurrence among students in a German University.

"But my duels were all more or less serious, for I always insisted upon fighting with the sword, rapier or pistol, and not enter into the ordinary student duel with masks and a sword.

Never Fought Szechenyi.

"I fought three duels in one day; one with pistols and two with swords, in one I was wounded, and I wounded my antagonists in the other two. You will see that I have scars from these fights upon my forehead, face, arms and hands.

"I was principal and second in many affairs, but I followed only the custom of my time and my class.

"I never did fight Count Szechenyi, Miss Vanderbilt's husband. That story is all wrong."

CHARGE $3,500 FRAUD TO LAND DEAL OPERATOR

Charged with obtaining $3,500 by false pretenses from Susan P. Moulton of Everett, George E. Keeler, aged forty-one, claiming to live in Worcester, was brought back from that city last night by Inspectors Meixner and Armstrong.

It is alleged that on January 20, 1906, he secured a portion of the money and that on March 27 of this year he obtained the remainder.

Keeler's specialty has been the organization of co-operative land deals, it is said, in which persons paid in $100 or more, making themselves members of the corporation and permitting them to purchase any property within a year of the date of their membership.

OFFER REWARD FOR COTTAGE LOOTERS

FRIENDSHIP, Me., April 30.—Moody Island, the home of the Summer camp of the Young Men's Christian Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, was recently been visited by vandals and considerable damage to the buildings and equipment.

The State committee in whose charge the camp is, has taken hold of the matter and has offered a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the damage.

PADEREWSKI DECLINES TO TAKE LAUREL

NEW YORK, April 30.—Paderewski refused to accept the laurel wreath proffered him by eight New York society women at the end of the recital he gave in the ballroom of the Hotel Plaza for the benefit of the Music School Settlement.

The wreath was provided by a committee consisting of Mrs. Charles H. Ditson, Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder, Mrs. Howard Mansfield, Mrs. George M. Tuttle, Mrs. Howard Van Sicklen, Miss Draper, Miss Laura Post and Miss Christine Baker. When a boy took it to the stage the pianist gave him a glance and walked into retirement. The boy left the wreath on the stage.

In explanation of Paderewski's course, his representative said:

"Mr. Paderewski never accepts flowers on the stage. There might be wires in such offerings which would prick his fingers. He is not willing to take the chances. Such tributes to him are unnecessary."

The buzz of conversation during his rendition of Beethoven's sonata appeared to annoy the pianist. He stopped and reproved the whisperers with a cold, reproachful stare.

WATCHORN TO KEEP OUT THE ANARCHISTS

NEW YORK, April 30.—Commissioner of Immigration Robert Watchorn, now on his way home from Europe with his wife on the Lusitania, is reported to be about to resign his position to become the head of a new bureau in the Department of Commerce and Labor, which will be known as the "Anarchist exclusion branch."

The new bureau, which is said to have the approval of Commissioner Straus, is to be established with the aim of working in co-operation with European governments to prevent the coming of Anarchists into this country.

Commissioner Watchorn has been in Rome conferring with Foreign Minister Tittoni on the subject of Anarchists.

WEDDING IN ALLSTON.

Miss Charlotte F. Slater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Slater, was married to Mr. Arthur Goodwin, by the Rev. F. G. Potter at Allston M. E. Church last evening. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Cambridge street. Many beautiful presents were received. Mr. and Mrs. Grover and paid

DEMANDS LAW AGAINST MERRY WIDOW HATS

HUDSON, April 29.—"A law should be passed by the Legislature making it a penal offence for any female to publicly wear a 'merry widow hat,'" said C. G. Geichell, a Boston & Maine railroad employee to-day.

"There is no fun in going to church when there are four or five women in front of you with hats forty inches across. What these hats not only prevent you from seeing the preacher, but they even hinder you in hearing the sermon, because they act as a sounding board and throw the sound back. I hope there will be more men who will come out openly against the hats and give their ideas about them, as I know there are a great many who dislike them, but who are somewhat shy to taking a stand against them.

"I was in Boston Saturday, and between Newspaper row and Summer street I couldn't see a thing ahead of me, because of these big hats. I thought people in Hudson would not take up this foolish idea, but nevertheless, they have, and during the past week every girl in town has bought one."

$50 FOR LIQUOR SALE.

Tony George of East Dedham pleaded guilty in the Dedham District Court today to the charge of selling liquor in his residence. He was fined $50 by Judge

INDEPENDENCE PARTY'S N.Y. CONVENTION

NEW YORK, April 30.—A meeting of the State Committee of the Independence Party has been called for Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the parlor of Carnegie Hall, Fifty-seventh street, near Seventh avenue.

Prior to the State Committee meeting the Executive Committee will get together at 2 p. m. in the same room. The work of both committees will be the final consideration of the arrangements for the State Convention, which will be called to order at 8 o'clock the same evening.

The State Committee has also announced that it will give a hearing in the afternoon on any contests that may have arisen out of the various district primaries and conventions.

When the State convention assembles in the evening it probably will be called to order by the chairman of the State Committee, William Randolph Hearst.

A BEAUTIFUL PICTURE.

A reproduction of the famous painting, "A Hopeless Dawn," in handsome colors, ready for framing, will be given FREE with next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

GRASSIE WINS IN MOTH FIGHT

Cohasset Democrats are jubilant over the victory won in the courts by Tree Warden Joseph E. Grassie, who is a member of their party, and the official who is clothed with authority to spend the $2,850 appropriation to exterminate the gypsy and brown-tail moths in that town.

The selectmen, who are Republicans, appointed Henry L. McMahon as moth exterminator, the court to-day decided that no authority in the matter, as the position is not a town office. This decision will affect many other towns in the State. It is a judicial ruling on a vexed question.

Most of the citizens of Cohasset wanted Grassie to do the work, and at a special town meeting on April 10 he was given that authority by vote. Then the selectmen proceeded against Grassie to determine his authority in regard to moth staying and the money to be spent in the work. The result is a third victory for Grassie, who has represented in the case by Attorney Thomas Mannix of Boston. He defeated the selectmen in two town meetings and before the court.

The bewitching Countess Montell is a burglar! Richly dressed, with dazzling jewels, ranting expensive apartments at the most fashionable hotels in Nice, the mysterious band that has so adroitly robbed European titled women and American millionaire tourists is at last uncovered by the police. CARLE PARTY TO SEE GAME

Richard Carle is going to take his chorus girls and all other members of "Mary's Lamb" company up to the National League grounds this afternoon and explain to them why is a ball when it's a bat.

Carle claims to know more about baseball than the man who made the game, although local friends of his boyhood days in Somerville do say that "three of out" was his diamond limit.

The chorus girls, however, have fallen for his statement that he can tell them all about the plays and are chattering with anticipation of the Doves-Giants' contest this afternoon.

The bunch will start from the Colonial Theatre at 2:30 in a "rubberneck wagon," take a run up through Commonwealth avenue and the lair of the predatory rich, then swing around to the ball grounds. After the game Carle will take the crowd over to Somerville and show them his birth place, where he used to go to school, and other scenes of his younger and better days.

ANTI-BRYAN FORCES WIN OUT IN BANGOR

BANGOR, Me., April 30.—The Democratic caucuses to elect delegates to the Fourth District convention developed a lively row between the Bryan and anti-Bryan forces.

The latter had [illegible] thing their own way and the Bryan men, claiming that gag rule was employed and that all sorts of irregularities prevailed, declare that they will contest the entire delegation.

The delegates at large are F. F. Curran, J. F. Angley, A. W. Weatherbee and W. Y. Patch, are all anti-Bryan and were Palmer and Buckner gold Democrats.

American's Course for Salespeople

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

Do not shirk a duty, no matter how trivial it may seem. Every time an employe shirks a duty it becomes harder to do it next time. Constant shirking begets a habit that brings censure or discharge.

The clerk who is FAITHFUL TO EVEN THE SMALLEST DETAIL is the one whose position and future are assured.

It is not that you are slaving yourself in some one else's service that makes it worth while to be faithful in the smallest duties. It is because you are perfecting yourself in your own work and giving yourself an experience that all successful people must have.

But keep your ambition to go ahead on top all the time. Just an instance of WHY IT PAYS:

A clerk in a large store had a little work each day in checking certain bills. It was one of those jobs that could be done very quickly and carelessly if one chose and still "get by." But this clerk did not shirk his full duty. Every bill was carefully gone over. The clerk in rechecking one day discovered an error which looked peculiar. As a result a wholesale plan to rob his employer was detected.

There were dozens of other people doing the same thing, but in so perfunctory a manner as not to discover any mistake. This clerk who did not shirk even a small detail of his work was suitably rewarded and his advancement into a larger position BEGAN THAT DAY.

Next Lesson in Saturday's American.

Cut out these "lessons." Every Sunday we print a review and self-examination. A good plan is to clip the lessons and reviews out and paste them in a scrap book. You will then have a manual on salesmanship that you could not buy for a good many dollars. It may be worth hundreds to you in increased salary.

WHOLE WORLD OF SPORTS COVERED FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN BY ITS CORPS OF EXPERTS

LEWIS SAYS PARIS IS WILD OVER RING BOUTS

NEW YORK, April 30.—In a letter to a friend, Willie Lewis, who is now having the time of his life in Paris, tells something of how the fighting game is raising a furore there, and gives some "side lights" on a few famous fighters now in the gay European capital.

"This is surely a hot fighting town," Lewis begins. "I'm afraid its too good to last. Fighting clubs are springing up all over Paris. The promoters are fighting among themselves and knocking each other, and there seems to be a chance that the authorities will cut into the game soon. But it's sure good now.

In describing Tommy Burns's recent fight with Jewey Smith, Lewis writes:

"Burns is a terrific puncher. He dropped this fellow Smith with little hooks that didn't travel six inches. He's a fighting gent all right, and the fastest big man I ever looked on. If you want my opinion he'll whip Johnson by a shade uncertainty. Any one who picks Burns for a socker is a sucker himself for doing it.

How Burns Fights.

"Burns is a large edition of Terry McGovern when Terry was "Terrible Terry." He carries a sleep pill in either mitt and fights with a crouch that makes it hard for an opponent to reach his jaw. He is very short, and puts together compactly, but he's got an awful reach. That's the secret of his fighting. His reach is 74½ inches, about the same as Fitzsimmons'.

Lewis has a lot to say about Sam McVey and begins:

"You may be surprised to know that Sam McVey, the big Los Angeles negro, is the Parisian's fighting idol, and as soon as Burns got to Paris he was pestered to death with challenges from McVey and his followers. They offered a purse of $20,000 for the match and Burns said to me: 'I don't like to fight any thing but an only just one negro—Johnson—but I hate like the mischief to let this money get away from me.' At the Smith fight McVey and his backers made a big showing, and Tommy was compelled to give a purse of $25,000, split $20,000 to the winner and $5,000 to the loser, and a side bet of $5,000 and 1% fight McVey here."

Crazy Over McVey.

"If they fight, the scrap will draw an awful mob. Everybody in this town is crazy over McVey. They never saw anything else as big and ugly. They see him around so much they've got an idea that nearly all Americans are black. You ought to see that chap. He's got clutches that would make a Sixth avenue dickey dealer look like a ragpicker. Last time I saw him he wore a cream-colored suit that looked like silk—sort of a pajama rig. He goes to fights in a carriage with a dress suit on and a big lounget in his hand. They say society has taken him up, and he is around to dinners in the swell houses and let sit at the table without putting a napkin or a chain on him. It must be a treat to see McVey dining with a duke.

"The negro will go crazy when Johnson comes here. And they will think we are a dark nation for fair when Dixon Cox go down the boulevard at the same time."

ONLY 9 GAMES FOR ELI ELEVEN

NEW HAVEN, April 30.—Yale's 1908 football schedule, containing nine games, the fewest on record, was announced to-day as follows:

Sept. 30—Wesleyan at New Haven.
Oct. 3—Syracuse at New Haven.
Oct. 10—Holy Cross at New Haven.
Oct. 17—West Point at West Point.
Oct. 24—Washington and Jefferson at New Haven.
Oct. 31—Sheffield Scientific Agricultural College at New Haven.
Nov. 6—Brown at New Haven.
Nov. 14—Princeton at Princeton.
Nov. 21—Harvard at New Haven.

EUSUE, CHINESE RUNNER, LOSES

HONOLULU, April 30.—Eu Sue, the Chinese sprinter, who recently sprang into the limelight of amateur athletics by covering fifty yards in 5 1-5 seconds, has had his measure taken. F. Mackenzie, a part-Hawaiian, is the youngster who turned the trick. In the fifty-yard dash at the championship athletic meet of the Hawaiian Islands recently Mackenzie ran up to Eu Sue's time, defeating the oriental, who was entered in the same race. In the same meet Mackenzie made a remarkable record as an all-round athlete. He ran 100 yards in 10½ seconds, winning from a fleet field, and won in the broad jump with 21 feet 9 inches.

HARVARD NINE TO MEET MAINE OUTFIT TO-DAY

BATTING ORDER.

HARVARD.		MAINE.
McLaughlin, c.		Mc'Allister, 2b.
Briggs, 1b.		Hall, p.
Hooper, 2b.		Gilman, c.
Mason, ss.		Hayes, 1b.
Hall, p.		Mayo, ss.
Currier, c.		Higgins, l. f.
Hagerman, l. f.		Ryan, c. f.
Slater, p.		Slater, r. f.

Harvard's third game of the week will be played this afternoon at 4 o'clock on Soldiers' Field against the University of Maine nine. Slater will twirl for the Crimson.

Although Harvard won yesterday from Exeter, 4 to 3, she made a poor showing against the schoolboys, who were handicapped by the absence of their captain and star pitcher because of scholarship difficulties.

Harvard batted raggedly and the men found it hard to get around the school boy, Brennan was in the box for Harvard. He was landed upon for seven hits, which gave more than a varsity pitcher should allow a schoolboy nine. The hits were well scattered, however, and Brennan had excellent control, which completely fooled his opponents at times.

GANS WILLING TO BOX NELSON ANY DISTANCE

BY W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—Joe Gans would be a much disappointed fighter if any obstacle should come up to prevent his meeting with Battling Nelson.

Says Gans: "When he was being floored in New York recently he told the sporting writers that he would rather fight me than any one on earth, and I am just tickled to death at being in a position to accommodate him.

Gans, who has quiet ways and talks philosophically at all times, says he opened the door of the dressing room at another battle with Nelson until he gets through with him.

"One fight at a time is sufficient to keep my pugilist's thoughts engaged," adds Joe. "When I come here if they had told me Nelson was to be my next opponent I would have said, 'It's all the same to me.' As it happens to be Nelson I am going to devote all my energies to training for Nelson, and Nelson and the rest of them can look out. For all I know, Tuhoia may put me out of business."

Gans says that while he has come to the conclusion that a twenty round contest continues a full day's work for him every time he fights one, he is not set against longer bouts.

"Let them show me that it's worth while and I'll go a hundred rounds," said Joe, with a flash of his soft black eyes.

VOTE COMING STRONG FOR "CY" IN BASEBALL CONTEST

That the baseball fans are alive to expressing their preference among the professional and amateur players in the voting contest opened by the BOSTON AMERICAN, for the purpose which are now appearing daily in the baseball editions, is attested by the flock of ballots that each mail is bringing to hand.

As might have been anticipated "Old Cy" Young is right on deck with the lead for the professionals; in fact, the very first coupon received by the BOSTON AMERICAN was for the grand old man of the diamond. For the amateurs the initial vote was recorded for Captain Billy Brophy, catcher for the English High.

That "Cy" will not have it all his own way, however, is shown by the handsome vote being thrown for Clarence Beaumont, the star of the Boston youthful handler of fouls, Frank Bowerman of the same team, well in the contest, he being but a slight margin below Ambrose McConnell of the Red Sox.

The last named is evidently strong with the Providence fans, as a large portion of his votes were received from that city. This means that the admirers of the other players must keep a strong lead on to prevent the honors from finally going to the former member of the Grays.

Joe Kelley is making friends fast in this city as is manifested by the fact that his name appears in the list of professional players who have gained a vote of one hundred and over.

In this respect it is noted that Jim McGuire is only a few votes short of being in the list, but the last batch of votes contained a whole envelope filled with votes for the Red Sox manager, showing that he has a very live rooter working in his interests.

How the Amateurs Stand.

Captain "Billy" Brophy is the popular little catcher of the Boston English High School, leads the contest for the most favorite amateur ball player, with a total vote of 196. Not far behind and coming fast is Captain Charlie Hoernle, the Dorchester High catcher, with a vote of 159.

Ballots are coming in by every mail, and the interest in the contest is growing daily. Any kind of a hit would have tied up the game. But we became overanxious again. The result was we didn't get a run per over the plate.

GANZEL SAYS CUBS WIN BECAUSE THEY'RE CHAMPS

Having money gets you money and being baseball champions wins you games.

That's the theory by which John Ganzel, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, to-day accounted for the remarkable showing of the World's Champion Chicago Club.

And by the same token it was the manner in which he accounted for the showing made by his Reds against those same champions.

"Don't for a moment figure that the gate is the only thing that benefits by having a world's champion baseball team," declared the manager as he arranged for a conference with some of his men.

Overplay Against Champs.

"Being champions wins you games on the field. The Cincinnati Reds won 5 of the games to the Cubs simply because the latter were champions.

"Here's the proposition: When you go against the World's Champions you know you're playing a real baseball team.

"You don't underestimate their strength. You're more likely to over-estimate it.

"The result is you're nervous. You're too anxious. When you go to the bat you want to hit the ball a mile, all because you're batting against World's Champions pitchers, and because you want to beat the champions of baseball.

"The result is you don't hit at all.

"When you're in the field you're too anxious again. You don't play the ball like you would if you were playing a team that wasn't a champion.

"You are too fresh. In a word you don't play your best game. You don't do yourself justice.

That's the Cincinnati games with the Cubs.

"We wanted to lick the World's Champions. In the first inning we had them back 'gainst it. We were on our toes all the time. We wanted to field too fast. We wanted to sing too hard. And the result was we fell down.

"In another game we had men on third base with none out in more than one inning.

FRANK JEFFRIES TO FIGHT WARD

CLEVELAND, April 30.—There is a chance that Mike Ward of this city and Frank Jeffries will meet in the ring in the near future, probably before the Denver title. Pa., Athletic Club.

G. W. Wyns of Dunkirk, N. Y., who is looking after the interests of Frank Jeffries, accepts the challenge issued through the Leader several days ago by Mike Ward and is willing to make the match for his protege.

Correspondence is now on with that end in view. Should the bout be arranged it will be for a side bet, as well as the win. Jeffries has the entire gate receipts. Jeffries refuses to accept these terms Ward claims, and he gets up with either "Black" Fitzsimmons or George Gunther. The backers of Ward say they have the greatest confidence in his ability to defeat either one at 158 pounds, although Jeffries weighs close to 165 pounds.

Jeffries is said to be improving right along. In a 6-round bout with Al Gibson, in Buffalo, two weeks ago, he put the Bison City chap to the count in the second round. Wyns says that Jeffries is a challenge to meet any one in the country at his weight.

NOTED RACE TRACK SOLD

NEW HAVEN, April 30.—Horsemen will universally regret to hear that the historic old race track in this city must pass out of existence, and be cut up into building lots. It is now nearly fifty years old and was first called Brewster Park. When the Hubbinger brothers bought the property they gave it the name of Elm City Park, which has been used in newspapers, etc., but with little success. The old time patrons of the course the title of Hamilton Park is still associated with it.

During the early years of the park there were many historic races held there when some of the most celebrated trotters on the turf were to be seen at the track. Among Girl, 2:16½, one of the noted trotters of her time (when her record was considered wonderful), was formerly a star performer on the course. Others were Mountain Boy and Hickory Jack, owned and raced by the late Ard. Carpenter.

BIG GAINS IN STICKWORK BY BOSTON TEAMS

Both Boston teams were there with the stickory wallop yesterday, thereby most of the players fattening their averages. Linda-man of the Doves was the biggest gainer of the day, jumping to the .400 class. Averages:

Umpire—Sheridan.

NEW YORK, April 30.—With Minstrel Keeler slated to pitch for the Red Sox, Manager McGuire feels confident that his team will win to-day, which will give him an even break for the series with the Highlanders.

Jorgan hasn't twirled since last Saturday, when he lost against the Senators, only through his generosity in issuing passes, although he allowed but five hits. To-morrow the Bostons will open up a three game series in Philadelphia, and the locals are confident that they will hand Connie Mack's men the same kind of a drubbing they did recently in Boston.

The Yankees are in fifth place in the American League race, just a nose behind the Athletics, and they believe that by the time they quit Slowtown the positions will be reversed.

Young won his fourth straight game Monday by pitching rings around the Washingtons. The score was 5 to 1, as usual the case, the men batted well behind the veterans, getting an avalanche of hits.

Walsh pitched four innings for the New Yorks, while Doyle pitched the other five. The Nats were pounded hard and fast consistently.

O'Connell's all-around play for Boston was the feature of the game.

TO MEET HARVARD '11.

EXETER, April 30.—The Phillips Exeter Academy faculty to-day granted permission for the track team to have a dual meet with the Harvard freshmen at Cambridge May 20. This is the first time in the history of the academy that the track team has been allowed to hold a dual meet with a college outside of Phillips Exeter.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., April 30.—Johnny Coulon, of Chicago, defeated Tommy Scully, also of Chicago, in the thirty round of a bout for the State bantamweight championship here last night.

NEW PITCHER'S RULE IS LIKED BY THE FANS

CHICAGO, April 30.—General satisfaction is heard from all sides, fans and players alike, over the construction put on Section 4 of Rules of the playing contract, which prohibits the player, the pitcher included, from taking time to disorder a new ball. The immediate result of this rule has been to shorten the games anywhere from five to ten or fifteen minutes, according to the number of new balls that have had to be put in play by the umpires.

Chicago's Cubs have played about the average since the opening of the season. They have played neither overly slow nor instantly sought, and among others adopted was the "Cubs" rule. The latter policy has been increasing the last season or two, however, and now comes this rule prohibiting discoloration of the ball by any player, and the effect is shown at once.

Some pitchers have objected to the rule, saying it is impossible for the slabmen to get the proper grip on a brand new smooth baseball to curve it, and predictions have been made from time to time that the batting averages of the players would shoot skyward.

Figures to date do not carry out this theory, as the pitchers apparently have about the same control they have shown in the past, and the batsmen are finding it just as hard to get started in their Spring hitting as formerly.

MORAN RIDES AT VAILSBURG.

Between the Innings.

Kelley's men made good and landed. Was McGraw sore? Oh no.

It was Kelley's homer which tied the score when two things looked blackest and Carney's muff which won us the game.

Seaggert's record is not equaled as he the game when his team was in the field. Lucky Matty.

The Giants were onto their old friend Cecil Ferguson the big blonde headed pitcher who was forced to retire after pitching two innings.

Lindaman went to mound then and did some masterly work till the tenth when he couldn't get the ball over the plate to save himself.

When the Giants saw "Little Cy" take his stand in the box in the eleventh they perceived visions of trouble as they had met him before without much success.

Such stick work as Beaumont, Kelley, Bates and Hitchey displayed at different times made the Giants shiver.

The fans could hardly contain themselves when Old Boss Kelley landed the ball over the fence in the tenth, sewing the score up. The noise could almost be heard over on the Polo grounds.

"Little Cy" Young boosted his batting average by knocking out a clean single in the eleventh and paved the way for the winning run.

Dahlen did some effective work in his position and shut off numerous Giants by his rapid action.

Beaumont saved runs when he caught Bresnahan at the plate in the tenth after Mathewson had driven off Bowerman and Roger had a regular friendly rough and tumble with Bowerman when the latter put the ball on him.

Mathewson did not want to pitch and McGraw had to go to the box during the time limit had expired, but Matty sauntered out just as Maggy was about to start in.

Nobody worked harder than Frank Bowerman on the coaching lines. He was swinging away at third base when his team was batting.

Emslie was bad on calling the strikes and Lindaman suffered the most from his misjudgments.

DICK NELSON EASILY WINS OVER CANOLE

PROVIDENCE, April 30.—Dick Nelson, the fighting Dane, of New York, got the decision over Martin Canole of Fall River, after 15 fast rounds of boxing at the Standard A. C. here, before 1,500 people, last evening. Neither man seemed to possess a K. O. punch, and only little damage was done by either. Nelson forced the going in almost every round and outboxed Canole at least 6 to 1.

Nelson had a big edge on his eyes as a result of his previous battle with Young Kleby at Manchester last week. Canole co-operated beautifully early in the evening, but this was the only gem-blance of injury sustained by either boy. Canole did get in his right hand hardly at all and found great difficulty in putting over his left very often, except in the seventh owing to Nelson's exceptionally clever blocking.

The Fall River boy started off with a rush and had a shade the better of the first 3 rounds, Nelson being a little stiff and slow. As the fourth opened the Dane kept forging ahead and the seventh round found him pushing Canole to top speed. The pace was too much for Martin and he simply fought himself out. Landing but one punch out of every seven or eight leads, all the while taking pretty stiff punches from the Dane, Canole found Canole almost all in, while Nelson was fresh and strong at the finish.

In the preliminaries, Charlie Ward of Newport put the decision over on Harry Hill of New York and Kid Perron drew with Awby Houston of the same city. Lenny Fury of Attleboro stopped Jimmy Donough in the fourth round of the semi-final.

HARD TO UMPIRE THE GAMES OF TAIL-END TEAMS

"Umpiring in the major leagues is hard to say, according to the conditions that arise," remarked Umpire "Billy" Evans of the American League, "but usually—you might almost say it is the rule—that is in the least important games—assuming that any games are unimportant—that the most trouble arises, while the games upon which a championship depends sometimes seem to umpire themselves.

"Ask any umpire who has been in the business for years, and he will tell you that his troubles come when least expected, and that his life is easiest when he might naturally expect one continual row.

"Bill Coughlin and I were assigned to the all-important series between the Sox and Tigers in Chicago last Fall. The park was rapidly filling up, and we had decided in advance to take extraordinary precautions against any trouble. There were four games in the series, and, honestly, an old maid could have umpired them without hearing a word that would have disturbed her notion of the proprieties.

"It's when two tail-end teams perform before 397 people at the far end of a season that the umpire wishes he had gone into some other line of work. Then it is the games that the umpires like are the ones in which there are about forty-nine easy put-outs and the ball is never known to be thrown out by thirty feet or more."

CALLAHAN TO BE REINSTATED

CHICAGO, April 30.—Jimmy Callahan, the owner of the Logan Square Semi-Professional Baseball Club, has applied to the National Commission for reinstatement.

Since he left the White Sox several years ago while on its reserve list, to own a local club, Callahan has been a so-called "outlaw" ineligible as an himself expresses it.

On his recent Spring training trip of the Minneapolis team, Jimmy joined the party and national agreement ethics were warped officially not to play with him.

When Mike Donlin quit the New Yorks he found a berth with Callahan, and only Monday was formally reinstated upon payment of $100.

At present Callahan has Hughes, a brother of Tom Hughes, on his coaching staff, a player released by Boston to Little Rock, where he refused to play.

PORTLAND H. S. BY SHUTOUT.

PORTLAND, Me., April 30.—Portland High School shut out the strong Biddeford High School team in a fast game, 6 to 0, yesterday, the pitching of Meagan, a youngster from Nebraska, was the feature of the game.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, APRIL 30, 1908

What Is the Matter with Those High Tariff Editors?

What Do Those Distinguished Ganders Mean by Refusing the Sauce for the Goose?

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

In the United States there are more than a thousand editors extremely friendly to a high tariff.

Those high-tariff editors believe that we should have a big tax on wool, another big tax on diamonds, another on coal, steel, eggs, meat.

Whatever is used in the ordinary American household they really think OUGHT TO BE TAXED HIGHLY.

They'll tell you that you ought to PROTECT the poor home farmer by taxing the foreign farmer's products of all kinds.

You ought to protect the poor American manufacturer, such as the poor United States Steel Trust, or the poor American Coal Trust, by taxing every foreign steel man and coal man.

You must protect the honest American workman by putting a big tax on everything that he makes, in order to make him prosperous.

This high-tariff song has been sung enthusiastically by the thousand and more high-tariff editors for years and years.

But suddenly there comes a change in their song. There comes something which the comic actor of the Weber and Fields type would call "a sour note." The high-tariff editors have suddenly discovered that you ought to tax everything made abroad except what THEY use, and you ought to protect with high tariff all American labor except the American labor for which THEY have to pay.

The great item in the cost of a newspaper is THE WHITE PAPER ON WHICH THE NEWSPAPER IS PRINTED.

White paper is made of wood pulp.

Wood pulp and white paper are very heavily taxed under our tariff system.

And all the high-tariff editors suddenly discover that there's just one exception in the beautiful high-tariff argument—the white paper and the wood pulp that THEY are compelled to buy ought to come in free of duty.

We have no desire to hurt the feelings of high-tariff editors, or low-tariff editors, or any kind of editors. But we must say that these high-spirited journalistic defenders of the workman and of the American manufacturer cut rather a comic figure when the tariff begins to touch their own pockets.

We should like to ask these high-tariff editors a few pertinent questions.

Is there any more reason for giving you freedom from the tariff than for giving that freedom to any other American business man? No tariff on white paper or on wood pulp would enable YOU to manufacture your newspapers more cheaply.

No tariff on wool would enable the clothing man to manufacture his clothing more cheaply.

No tariff on foodstuffs—meat, sugar, eggs—would enable the American mother to feed her children more cheaply.

Can you mention any special reason why the tariff should exempt YOU, while taxing a woman feeding her children, a small tailor buying a bolt of cloth, or a big department store owner competing with his neighbors in the important work of DISTRIBUTING GOODS AT LOW COST?

Why not be consistent? You are supposed to protect ALL of your readers, to think of THEIR interests only. If free trade or lower tariff in your particular business is good for YOU, why not advocate free trade or lower tariff for THEM?

This newspaper has long ago expressed its belief that tariff should be regulated for the benefit of the people, and NOT FOR THE BENEFIT OF MONOPOLISTS.

But we do not propose to assist in any journalistic war dance which seeks to bully or blackmail Congress into passing special legislation for newspaper owners, while ignoring all the rest of the citizenship.

We have some right to speak in this matter, and in this particular case our respectable friends of the high-tariff press will not be able to say that we are preaching anarchy or trying to make ourselves rich in demagogue fashion.

The proprietor of this newspaper buys more white paper in a year than any other two men in the United States. There are not two newspapers in the United States outside of our own—probably not any five newspapers in the United States—that buy and use as much paper as the Hearst newspapers.

Cheaper paper would mean more in the way of profit to the owner of this newspaper than to any other man in the United States.

We should be very glad, indeed, to have cheaper paper. At the present price of paper, when we sell Boston Americans to the dealers at ten copies for six cents, we receive scarcely more than the cost of the white paper alone.

Like those editors that favor high tariff for EVERYBODY ELSE, and no tariff for THEMSELVES, we should be charmed to make more money and buy our white paper at a lower price.

But we do not propose to advocate special favors for ourselves or for [illegible] business.

[illegible]igh-tariff editors want lower tariff let them work to give EVERYBODY—to the little manufacturer, to the farmer, [illegible] of the tax and gets least protection—then they will be [illegible] to demand lower tariff for themselves.

[illegible] shouting high tariff, protection to the American [illegible]orget that American workmen [illegible]ican paper, and there is [illegible] why that class of [illegible]d be deprived of Reading a Message!

By Wex Jones

LOEB arrives breathless.

"Message—special message—from the Boss!" he cries.

Various Senators: "How long is this one?" "We're too tired." "What is it—telling us how to suck eggs?" "Adjourn." "Cut it out." "Read it to-morrow." "This makes the ninety-seventh." "The country will go broke if these messages keep up, with white paper so high."

Finally it is decided to have the message and get it over.

The message:

"I grieve to note the flippant way in which my 8 previous messages were treated by my Senate, and, surprised and disgusted that my programme of legislation has not been followed, I address a few words [Voice: "How few—78,000?"] to you on the subject.

"We must smite the predatory rich man with terrific smites, as this will please the voters who are not rich and we need their votes. But we must be alive to the menace of organized labor and I propose that we hand it a few well-directed smites to please the predatory rich, for we cannot exist without campaign contributions, and some of the rich are practical men.

"Babies should not be fed on broken glass, and suitable legislation should be introduced giving the President power to regulate the entire question of infant raising.

"There is a widespread feeling against the abuse of the injunction, and I am in favor of taking this power out of the hands of the courts, only allowing the courts to use it in any cases they may think proper.

"All trade should be under federal control. Upon all persons or combinations of persons should rest the burden of proof that they are entitled to be in business. Kindly enact a law at once giving me full powers to control all trade.

"Every patriot should be with me against class consciousness. The poor man should be satisfied that another man has more money, however obtained; the rich man should be glad to give up part of his money to perpetuate my politics.

"It is a vile mistake, or worse, to say, as some visionaries do, that chipmunks chip. Nor are woodchucks constructed of wood.

"Legislatures have no right to pass laws which may later turn out to be unconstitutional, and courts should be very careful in declaring unconstitutional laws which persons may not wish to be declared unconstitutional.

"Merry Widow hats should be declared unconstitutional.

"In the chaos of an absolutely unrestricted individualism—for I cannot regulate everybody and everything unless I am given more favorable legislation—we find one of the least admirable of our citizens; a man whose face is hard, while his corns are soft; whose son is a Democrat and his daughter married to somebody; whose principal aim is to keep from going broke.

"Eggs should never be boiled more than three minutes.

"This is all I have to say to you until I can finish my next message, which will be completed as soon as the paper trust forwards the necessary ton of white paper." [Snores.]

When Religion Is a Farce

Human Kindness a Better Test Than Any Creed

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

So many gods, so many creeds,
So many paths that wind and wind,
While just the art of being kind
Is all the sad world needs.

A REFINED young girl of good family but reduced fortunes undertook to earn a scholarship by obtaining 1,000 subscribers to a popular magazine.

She was well known in the interior city of her birth, and a great many of her mother's friends offered their names as an encouragement.

When the young womanf set about collecting the dollar from each subscriber, however, her troubles began. One was "just going out," and wished she would "call again." Another was "taking a nap," and wished she would to "call again." A third was being manicured, and wished she would "call again."

To one house—the house of her mother's friend—the poor girl has made five pilgrimages to obtain the one paltry dollar.

The thoughtlessness, the indifference, the selfish inconsiderateness of good, orthodox, church-going people has driven this young, struggling creature nearly into a sanitarium. She is broken in health and spirits by her experience.

Another woman, a widow with four children dependent upon her, has resorted to the occupation of hair-brushing for a means of support. She charges 25 cents for a half hour's work. During the Summer she goes down to a suburban seashore resort, where several of her customers are sojourning, and charges 35 cents in order to cover her carfare.

One young lady, who pays $25 for a dressing sacque, and whose entire wardrobe is in accordance, has refused to patronize the hair-dresser because she has added 10 cents to her price.

Several others are in the habit of forgetting their engagements, and being "so sorry" the next time they see the poor woman.

But their regret does not take the form of paying her for the work she came to do—and for the engagement which they failed to keep.

All are women in comfortable homes who would not hesitate to subscribe $5 to any charity. Yet they do not offer to give 35 cents to the woman whose sole income accrues from her patrons' reliability in keeping their engagements with her.

A man who owns a beautiful Summer home, and has a large bank account, and is a prominent church member, drove a neat and modest woman who sells cut flowers for a living from his grounds, and compelled her to walk over rough cobblestones in her exit from his grounds.

Yet he sends money to heathen lands and takes communion every month.

What a farce is religion of that order!

All Quiet

By James J. Montague

ALL quiet along the Potomac to-night,
Save—Why this wild yell for the Sheriff?
A couple of statesmen are having a fight
About the attack on the tariff.
Wild howls rend the air, and an ear-splitting cry,
Then the innocent bystanders scatter,
As a thirty-two pellet sings sinister by
The head of the rock-ribbed standpatter.
Then a bluncoat appears, and the jarring notes fail
As two Congressmen lodge for the night in the jail.

ALL quiet along the Potomac once more.
Save—What is that uproar proceeding
From yon Senate chamber? a clerk has the floor
And the last special message he's reading.
"Get the hook," cries a Senator; "knock off his block!"
"Throw all that fool tripe in the gutter!"
And the clerk, somewhat peevish, collides with a rock
And is carried away on a shutter.
But slowly and surely the turbulence wanes,
And quiet once more o'er the Capitol reigns.

ALL quiet along the Potomac again,
Save—What is that voice rising higher,
Proclaiming in accents uncommonly plain
"Thief! Murderer! Reprobate! Liar?"
The voice is the President's—his is the speech
And adjectives—even the scoff is his
While some malefactor hastes forth out of reach
Of the troublous Executive offices.
All quiet—so runs the old beautiful song—
All quiet again—but, ah! never for long.
